Council approves budget, cuts jobs

The City Council Monday approved a 1976-77 city budget which calls for eliminating 11 city jobs and raising property taxes nine cents.

The council also approved a $1 per month rate hike for See-Mor Cable TV, with the extra revenue to be refunded to the subscribers if the company fails to install a micro-wave system by March 15, 1977.

Budget

The new budget is seven per cent higher than last year, with expenditures and revenues both totaling $1,309,200.

In order to balance the budget, taxes and fees were raised and 11 city job positions were dropped.

City Manager Charles Church said Sikeston, like many other cities, is faced with declining revenues.

Revenues lost from last year's budget include $140,000 in reimbursements from the state for the recreational complex, $25,000 left over from a sewer bond issue and $15,000 in intangible taxes which are no longer in effect.

In addition, the gasoline tax revenue fell last year and is expected to hold steady this year.

To offset the losses, the council voted to increase the property tax rate from $1.42 to $1.51 per $100 assessed valuation. The $1.51 tax rate breaks down to 95 cents for the general fund, 20 cents for the park fund, 19 cents for the library fund and 17 cents for the 1965 general obligation bond fund.

The city's five per cent franchise tax on utilities will remain the same, although income is expected to rise slightly.

Church suggested requiring Sikeston Light & Water Co. to pay a franchise fee equal to the now donated services such as street lights, fire hydrants, etc.

The reason, Church said, is that part of the money the city receives in federal revenue sharing funds is determined by the local tax effort, and the added franchise tax would mean an increase in revenue sharing money.

The council took no action on the proposal.

The council voted to increase the city sticker rate for vehicle licenses by changing the basis on which they are issued. For automobiles rated 12 horsepower or less, the sticker will cost $2.50; 13 to 24 hp, $3.50; 24 to 35 hp, $5.50; 36 to 48 hp, $7.50; 49 to 60 hp, $8.50; and 60 to 72 hp $10.50. Sticker prices previously have been based on the number of engine cylinders.

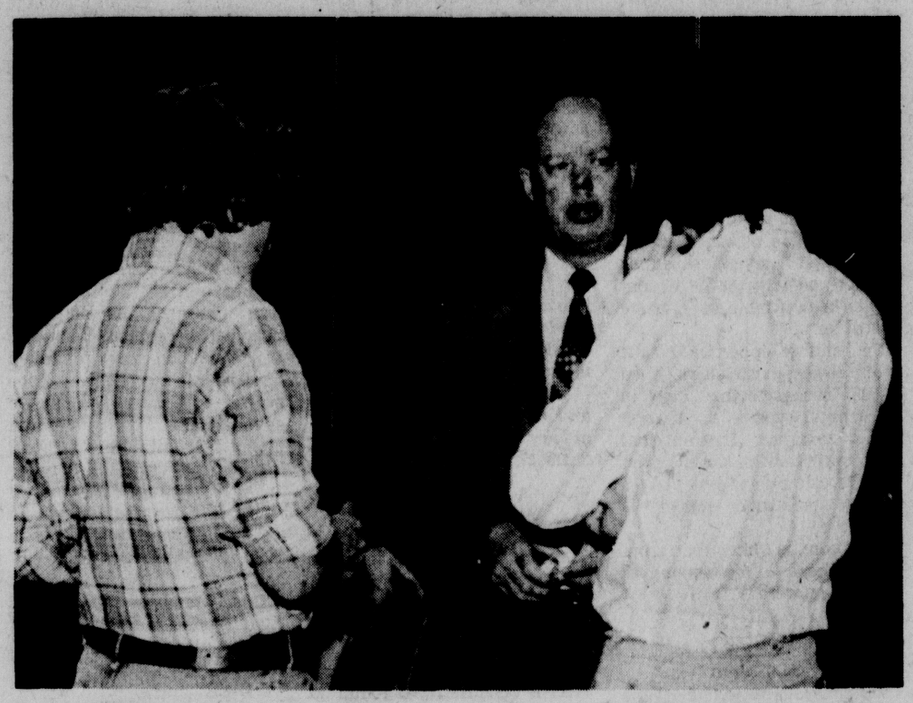

Motorcycle stickers will cost $2.

For trucks, two tons or less, the fee will be $3.50; three to five tons, $6; five to six tons, $9; six to seven tons, $10; seven to eight tons, $12; and over eight tons, $5 per ton.

The council voted to increase the fee charged for answering out-of-town fire calls from $100 to $350.

The budget eliminates 11 positions on the city payroll, including two policemen, two firemen and three laborers, whose salaries are currently paid by the Public Service Employment Program. When the program ends in June or September, the employes will not be absorbed into the city payroll.

Finney talks with cattlemen

Wray Finney, center, of Fort Cobb, Okla., president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, talks with two young Southeast Missourians prior to the start of Monday's cattle industry action tour at the Ramada Inn.

SeMo cattlemen told to become involved

Cattlemen attending the first statewide cattle industry tour were told Monday by Wray Finney of Fort Cobb, Okla., president of the American Cattlemen's Association, that many of their current problems are their own fault because of their failure to become involved in the political process and to keep legislators informed of their needs.

Encouraging cattlemen to become on the political level, Finney was featured speaker at a meeting in the Ramada Inn, Highway 62 East, as was Junior Simpson of Salem, president of the Missouri Cattlemen's Association.

The meeting was attended by approximately 100 cattlemen, agri-businessmen, politicians (including Warren E. Hearnes, D-Charleston, former governor and current U.S. Senate candidate, and State Rep. C. F. Cline, D-Sikeston) and interested persons from Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Stoddard , Cape Girardau, Butler and Bollinger counties.

Finney told the group that much of the cattleman's problem with government stems from the fact that the people in government are not informed sufficiently of the needs of agriculture. He said the reason the upper levels of U. S. government are not informed is simply because Washington has little agricultural makeup and doesn't understand the needs and problems related to agriculture.

Finney says that he sees three premises in looking at today's government:

1. Logic has little to do with political programs, "As we look at logic, or common sense," because Washington doesn't realize what it takes to put food on the table.

2. There is no farm bloc because there isn't enough farm representation. Instead of complaining, Finney said "we should try to encourage and educate polititions."

3. There is no longer government by the people, but by special interest groups.

Finney maintained that the solution to the problem is that cattlemen must develop an awareness and become involved in politics.

He told the group that now is the time to get involved in politics not by running for office, but aiding those presently serving by letting them know your needs.

Finney asked how many people present had ever worked for or supported candidates whose philosophy they believed in.

Then he said, "if you don't get involved, your wishes and views won't be known."

Simpson, too, voiced that government needs to be informed, saying, "We need a strong voice in agriculture and if we don't speak up no one will"

He urged people in agriculture to stop living off each other, i.e. cattlemen living off farmers, etc.

Simpson told the group that all the management courses they take are good, but the rules and decisions from government have more to do with their profit.

Simpson added that the free enterprise system is being tampered with, which is wrong because the country was built on a free enterprise system.

Both Simpson and Finney expressed concern over a bill that has failed to pass in the Missouri House but has passed the House and is headed to the Senate in Washington.

The bill, known to some as the Packwood Bill, deals with prohibiting counties and states from importing meat that does not have to pass the rigid inspection "home grown" meat is subjected to.

Simpson said that much of the imported ground beef is received very dark and has oxgen pumped into it to add color.

The next of 15 tour stops for Finney and Simpson was to be at Fredericktown this morning.

Teenager with gun charged

A Morehouse teenager was arrested Monday night for carrying a concealed weapon and felonious assault after he allegedly tried to draw his gun on police Detective Lt. Jack Patterson.

Arrested was Trennis Lee Abernathy, 19, a passenger in a car which was driven by Clyde R. Greer of Morehouse. Greer was arrested for driving on a suspended drivers license.

Patterson said he stopped the car about 7:20 p.m. in the 1400 block of West Malone Avenue. after it weaved across the center line of the highway. Greer got out of the car, and told him that he did not have a driver's license, Patterson said.

Patterson told him to stand by the police car and then asked Abernathy to get out of the car.

Patterson said Abernathy began fumbling around in his shirt as he came to the back of the car. Patterson said he lunged, striking Abernathy in the back and knocking the gun, a .22 caliber pistol, to the ground.

Patterson said he has had more guns drawn on him in the past year than in the previous 10 years on the force.

15% rate hike recommended

NEW MADRID– A 15 per cent rate increase in electric rates was recommended to the City Council Monday night as a result of a systems and rate analysis study by Phelps and Hogland Engineering Co. of Raytown.

The 68-page electric system and rate study was presented to the council in a two-hour report Monday night. According to the study, the increase will be required for financing of present and future expansions and additions to the city electrical system required by the increased demand. Nearly half a million dollars in improvements will be required by the early 1980's, according to the study.

Recommended was the phasing out of the city's present generating facilities as being uneconomical because of high fuel costs and unavailability of natural gas. Pointed out was the cost of fuel oil, which is now nearly three times as costly as two years ago.

The city's electrical requirements would be provided for in the future, as proposed in the study, by purchases of powers from Associated Electric Coopertive, Inc. generating station in St. Judge Industrial Park and from Southwest Power Administration.

Presently the city purchases power from SPA and generates current during peaking hours. Largest outlay for projected improvements would be for construction of transmission lines to pick up the power and construction of transformer substations.

Short-term improvements recommended are increasing transformer capacity, building of an electrical loop to split the load on city circuits and to eliminate as much line loss as possible.

In other business handled, Ward One Alderman John A. Hunter was elected president of the board and will chair meetings in the mayor's absence. Other appointments made were Dixie Leonberger, city treasurer; Dick St. Mary, member of the derelict building committee and reappointed were Hal Hunter Jr., city attorney, and H. H. "Bud" Townsend Jr., fire chief.

Grant expected for sewer work

DEXTER — A $52,000 federal grant for a city sewer extension to the Swift and Co. plant may be approved this week, the City Council learned Monday night.

Gary Gaines, an engineer with Trotter and Associates Consulting Firm, acting as city engineers, told the council that the Ozark Regional Commission will probably make its decision Thursday.

If approved the city will probably be contacted Friday, but it will still be several weeks before the decision is finalized.

After the regional commission approves the project it will be sent to Washington D.C. for final approval, but this will just be a formality, Gaines said.

After talking with commission officials, Gaines told the council that it looks like the grant has a good chance of being approved.

The city will still have to pay some of the estimated $68,350 cost, but hopes to get by without asking for a tax increase.

Swift and Co. has already agreed to pre-treat its waste water as part of the deal to get the city to install the new line.

At the present time, chicken fat and feathers from the plant are clogging up the lines. This has caused citizens to complain resulting in the council's action.

In addition to benefitting the plant, the city feels the move will help 400-500 residents east of the poultry processing plant.

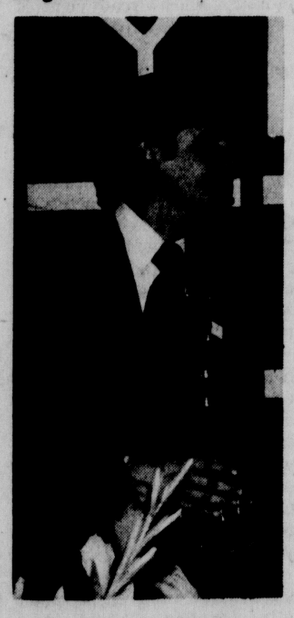

The council also approved an across-the-board pay hike for all city employes and heard a report from Mayor Willis Conner that a St. Louis plastic manufacturing company is thinking about locating in Dexter.

He said it is a small company and didn't know the name of it.

The meeting was adjourned for several minutes and then newly elected alderman Dale Pursell and other city officials, who were recently re-elected to their positions were sworn in.

City employes were re-appointed by Conner and were approved by the council.

Scott Blankenship was appointed Civil Defense director to take the place of Pursell, who resigned the position to become alderman.

Court approves annexation

BENTON — Approval for Haywood City to annex a 10-acre area and the resignation of a Levee District No. 2 commissioner were among the items of business coming before the Scott County Court during its Monday session.

Ten acres of a platted subdivision area were approved for annexation so Haywood City can include the area in an application for a federal grant to add water and sewage to the city.

According to Scott County Clerk, Bob Kielhofner, the County Court has the authority to grant such approval in cases of proposed annexation by towns and villages, while larger city governments must obtain approval from the Circuit Court.

Bill Moore, a commissioner for Levee District No. 2, which governs the levee south of Commerce in Scott County, resigned his position Monday, explaining that he has a private levee in that same area and wants to devote his time and efforts to maintaining his own structure.

Moore also said,according to Kielhofner, that he is going to do some repair on his levee and does not want to appear to be using his position as a levee commissioner to maintain his own facility. The court accepted the resignation, indicating that an appointment to fill the vacancy will be made at a later date.

In other business, the court approved a vacation order for a plat of Tywappity Lake Subdivision, located near Lake Tywappity northeast of Chaffee. A developer told the court he plans to replat the subdivision.

A glass in a door on the west side of the building was broken, giving access to the inside lock.

The office of Principal Bob Graham was entered and a small amount of change was taken from the office and from a pencil machine in a hallway.

Ritchey said the break-in appeared to be the work of juveniles.

Pamela Jean Pearce, 21, of Malden was killed in a two-vehicle accident at 6:20 a.m. today on Route M, five miles northwest of Malden in Dunklin County, Her son, Jonathan Eric Mays, 20 months old, was seriousiy injured in the accident and taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred when a pickup truck driven east by Billy Gene Boyle, 45, of Bernie Route One, failed to yield the right of way and struck a pickup truck driven north by William Thomas Pearace, 29, husband of Mrs. Pearce, in the side. Mrs. Pearce was thrown from the vehicle.

The body was taken to Duffie-Rainey Funeral Home in Bernie.

Timothy Mungle, 13, of Patton was killed in a one-car accident at 7:30 a.m. Monday on Route 51, two miles south of Patton in Bollinger County.

The body was taken to Young and Sons Funeral Home at Perryville.

The youth was a passenger in a northbound car, driven by his brother, James Mungle, 19, also of Patton, who sustained critical injuries in the crash.

SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI TUESDAY, MAY 4, 1976 NUMBER 55

15% rate hike recommended

NEW MADRID– A 15 per cent rate increase in electric rates was recommended to the City Council Monday night as a result of a systems and rate analysis study by Phelps and Hogland Engineering Co. of Raytown.

The 68-page electric system and rate study was presented to the council in a two-hour report Monday night. According to the study, the increase will be required for financing of present and future expansions and additions to the city electrical system required by the increased demand. Nearly half a million dollars in improvements will be required by the early 1980's, according to the study.

Recommended was the phasing out of the city's present generating facilities as being uneconomical because of high fuel costs and unavailability of natural gas. Pointed out was the cost of fuel oil, which is now nearly three times as costly as two years ago.

The city's electrical requirements would be provided for in the future, as proposed in the study, by purchases of powers from Associated Electric Coopertive, Inc. generating station in St. Judge Industrial Park and from Southwest Power Administration.

Presently the city purchases power from SPA and generates current during peaking hours. Largest outlay for projected improvements would be for construction of transmission lines to pick up the power and construction of transformer substations.

Short-term improvements recommended are increasing transformer capacity, building of an electrical loop to split the load on city circuits and to eliminate as much line loss as possible.

In other business handled, Ward One Alderman John A. Hunter was elected president of the board and will chair meetings in the mayor's absence. Other appointments made were Dixie Leonberger, city treasurer; Dick St. Mary, member of the derelict building committee and reappointed were Hal Hunter Jr., city attorney, and H. H. # Grant expected for sewer work

DEXTER — A $52,000 federal grant for a city sewer extension to the Swift and Co. plant may be approved this week, the City Council learned Monday night.

Gary Gaines, an engineer with Trotter and Associates Consulting Firm, acting as city engineers, told the council that the Ozark Regional Commission will probably make its decision Thursday.

If approved the city will probably be contacted Friday, but it will still be several weeks before the decision is finalized.

After the regional commission approves the project it will be sent to Washington D.C. for final approval, but this will just be a formality, Gaines said.

After talking with commission officials, Gaines told the council that it looks like the grant has a good chance of being approved.

The city will still have to pay some of the estimated $68,350 cost, but hopes to get by without asking for a tax increase.

Swift and Co. has already agreed to pre-treat its waste water as part of the deal to get the city to install the new line.

At the present time, chicken fat and feathers from the plant are clogging up the lines. This has caused citizens to complain resulting in the council's action.

In addition to benefitting the plant, the city feels the move will help 400-500 residents east of the poultry processing plant.

The council also approved an across-the-board pay hike for all city employes and heard a report from Mayor Willis Conner that a St. Louis plastic manufacturing company is thinking about locating in Dexter.

He said it is a small company and didn't know the name of it.

The meeting was adjourned for several minutes and then newly elected alderman Dale Pursell and other city officials, who were recently re-elected to their positions were sworn in.

City employes were reappointed by Conner and were approved by the council.

Scott Blankenship was appointed Civil Defense director to take the place of Pursell, who resigned the position to become alderman.

Court approves annexation

BENTON — Approval for Haywood City to annex a 10-acre area and the resignation of a Levee District No. 2 commissioner were among the items of business coming before the Scott County Court during its Monday session.

Ten acres of a platted subdivision area were approved for annexation so Haywood City can include the area in an application for a federal grant to add water and sewage to the city.

According to Scott County Clerk, Bob Kielhofner, the County Court has the authority to grant such approval in cases of proposed annexation by towns and villages, while larger city governments must obtain approval from the Circuit Court.

Bill Moore, a commissioner for Levee District No. 2, which governs the levee south of Commerce in Scott County, resigned his position Monday, explaining that he has a private levee in that same area and wants to devote his time and efforts to maintaining his own structure.

Moore also said,according to Kielhofner, that he is going to do some repair on his levee and does not want to appear to be using his position as a levee commissioner to maintain his own facility. The court accepted the resignation, indicating that an appointment to fill the vacancy will be made at a later date.

In other business, the court approved a vacation order for a plat of Tywappity Lake Subdivision, located near Lake Tywappity northeast of Chaffee. A developer told the court he plans to replat the subdivision.

Kiwanians to celebrate 50th

CHARLESTON — Fifty continuous years of community service will be celebrated May 14 when the Charleston Kiwanis Club observes its 50th anniversary.

A dinner at 7 p.m. in the high school commons will mark the event at which the featured speaker will be Don Hevel of Palmyra, Kiwanis governor of the Missouri-Arkansas District.

The local club was chartered May 4, 1926 under the sponsorship of the Cairo, Ill., Kiwanis Club. Since that time it has been responsible for the organization of clubs in East Prairie and Sikeston.

Three of the charter members still living are Max Friedman and Lanier Byrd of Charleston and Jerry Deal of Columbia.

Representatives of all 13 Kiwanis Clubs in Division 15 and the Cairo club are expected to attend the celebration, plus representatives of other local service organizations.

Police investigate break-in

CHARLESTON--Police are investigating a break-in at Warren E. Hearnes Elementary School on Plant Road.

Police Chief Bob Ritchey said the break-in occurred sometime between 11 p.m. Monday and 6:30 a.m. today, when it was discovered by a school custodian.

A glass in a door on the west side of the building was broken, giving access to the inside lock.

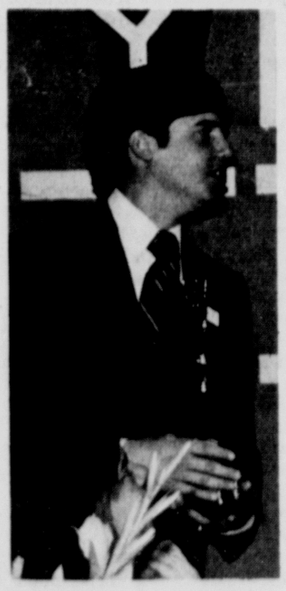

The office of Principal Bob Graham was entered and a small amount of change was taken from the office and from a pencil machine in a hallway.

Ritchey said the break-in appeared to be the work of juveniles.

3 juveniles cleared

EAST PRAIRIE--Three juveniles questioned in connection with break-ins in East Prairie have been cleared of any involvement in the crimes following polygraph tests, according to juvenile authorities.

The break-ins the three were questioned about included the J. W. Bohannon home, 509 North St., and the Dr. Ralph Bogert home, 310 DeFields St.

DECA Honorees

CAN WE SPARE THE SPACE?

The spare tire on automobiles could be as extinct as the buggy whip by 1985.

That is the prediction of a number of automobitve engineers, who estimate that if the weight of spare tire and wheel and tools motorists now drag along in their cars could be eliminated, nearly a million gallons of gasoline could be saved daily.

Collapsed spares that can be self-inflated by a small pressurized air container for temporary use have been available for several years. But the real race is on among the major tire makers such as Uniforyal, Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and General Tire to perfect the "ultimate tire" which will require no back-up replacement in the trunk.

This ultimate tire, known as the "run-flat" in the industry, will enable a motorist to drive his car, in the event of a flat, at a reasonable speed over a stated distance to a service station for the necessary repairs.,

"Elimination of the spare is within reach of the industry, and not far off," according to W. Herbert Schmalz, president of Unifroyal Tire Co.

Apart from the psychological crutch provided by the spare, there is little to be said in its favor, he says, and predicts that "when motorists feel comfortable driving on a flat tire to a service station, they will overcome any emotional barrier to riding without a spare."

STATE OF THE UNION,'76

By HOWARD FLIEGER

There are a few other things concerning the state of the union that probably ought to be mentioned about now.

Here are some examples, jotted down more or less at random:

Item. President Ford's projected federal budget of 394.2 billion dollars translates into a deficit of 43 billion.

That is a decided improvement over the 76-billion-dollar deficit expected in the current fiscal year — the largest percentage of the gross national product since 1946. But there is something awesome in the knowledge that between July 1, 1975, and Sept. 30, 1977,. the Government will have gone in the red to the tune of 135 billion dollars. That equals the entire budget of a decade ago.

Item. We are at peace. From a military standpoint we still are the greatest power on earth. But the Soviet Union is gaining on us. The way things are going, the day may not be distant when we will be No. 2.

Item. There are 1.7 million more Americans with jobs now than there were last March. That is the good news. The bad news is that, while the number of men and women in the labor force is about the highest ever, nearly 8 million are without jobs. Moreover, hundreds of thousands have either exhausted their unemployment benefits, or soon will. That is when the going gets rough.

Item. In today's world, intelligence— the knowledge of what others are up to — is as important as any facet of foreign policy. Our intelligence has fallen upon hard times. To oversimplify: Our spies are getting so much publicity that friendly spies of other countries won't confide in them any more. Result: We don't know as much about the rest of the world as we did a year ago.

Item. College campuses are quiet. But rowdyism and violence in below-college schools has become the most crucial problem in America's educational system. And nobody seems to know exactly what to do about it.

Item. There is no shortage of home heating gas this winter, as many thought there would be. But the comfort is due to an act of God, not an act of Congress or the Administration. Generally, it's been a mild winter, and in mild weather people don't use as much fuel to heat their homes as they do when it's bad outside.

There isn't a shortage of gasoline, either. But don't forget: Americans are more dependent on imported petroleum now than they have ever been. Also, a bigger proportion of the imported crude comes from the Middle East than was true at the time of the embargo two years ago. It isn't pleasant to think what another embargo would mean. The first one caused some hardships. A new one any time soon would be a disaster.

Item. There are so many Democrats running for President that most people can't remember their names — and a lot of people don't want to bother. This is not the most exciting political year in history.

Item. New York City's obligations are in default—not technically, maybe, but in fact. Still, the dire predictions that were made in advance of that event have not come to pass. Both New York and the country seem to be getting along fairly well.

Item. Possibly significant: A new audit of church attendance made by the Gallup Poll organization shows that the decline in religious activity by young Americans apparently has stopped. In 1967, four in 10 young adults attended church fairly regularly. The proportion declined to three in 10 by 1970. Now, in 1976, it still is three in 10. The downward trend has halted.

So, in many ways the state of the union is about as President Ford portrayed it the other night when he said:

"I report that the state of our union is better—in many ways a lot better—but still not good enough."

REVIEW WORLD AT 50 LOOKS AHEAD TO NEXT

Any magazine that survives to celebrate its 50th anniversary in these inflationary and rapidly changing times deserves congratulations. When the anniversary comes only a year after the magazine was in bankruptcy and seemed headed the way of so many others, the event is especially noteworthy.

The Saturday Review of Literature first saw the light of print as a weekly magazine on August 2, 1924, with Henry Seidel Canby, editor, and Amy Loveman, William Rose Benet and Christopher Morley, assistant editors. Readership was 23,000 and the price 10 cents per copy.

Through boom, bust and then depression, the Review struggled along, scarcely expanding its modest circulation but remaining true to the standards its editors originally set for it. Young writers now considered classic names in American literature were introduced in its pages Hemingway, Dos Passos, Steinbeck and others. Bernard DeVoto became editor in 1936 and was succeeded by George Stevens in 1938. In 1940, 25-year-old Normal Cousins joined the staff as executive editor and shortly became editor.

In 1952, the name was shortened to Saturday Review in keeping with the magazine's greatly expanded coverage, which by then included weekly sections on music, theater, films and travel as well as increasingly respected editorials by Cousins. By 1964, circulation had risen to 400,000.

Cousins also initiated a number of humanitarian programs that gained worldwide attention. Among them was the "Hiroshima Maidens" project in 1955, which brought a group of young women disfigured by the atomic bombing to this country for plastic and other medical treatment.

Then in 1971 new publishers took over the Review and split it into four specialized monthly magazines and a series of book clubs. "In philosophical and professional disagreement" with the new owners, Cousins resigned and successfully launched his own magazine called World.

Early in 1973, Saturday Review filed for bankruptcy and Cousins was asked back to reorganize the magazine and resume full editorial control. The first biweekly issue of a combined Saturday Review World hit the newstands in September, 1973, with a circulation of 850,000.

A year later, at a party held to mark the magazine's golden anniversary, Cousins announced that it was in the black. To celebrate, the Review in August published two bulging issues, one retrospective of the first 50 years, the other looking ahead to the next 50, with experts in a number of fields forecasting changes that lie ahead.

"If we were still three years from Lindbergh's flight to France when the Saturday Review of Literature first appeared, " the editors asked, "and we are now walking on the moon, how far will we rach in the next 50 years—in 2054?"

If there is still a Saturday Review World then-and the first 50 years are the hardest its faithful readers will know the answer.

INFLATION SHELTERS?

One of the questions this writer is most frequently asked—probably other economists have the same experience—is: "What shall I do to hedge against inflation?" It is apparently asked in the hope that some form of financial preparation on the part of the questioner can prevent erosion of his savings and his expected future flow of income as a result of a rising trend in the price level. Some questioners seem even to have hopes that, if they do the right thing, they can come out ahead of the game and make a profit out of inflation.

Our usual answer is: there is no such thing as a hedge against inflation. There is no systematic course of action that can be prescribed now that will prevent future inflation, if it occurs, from damaging your financial position.

It is surprising how often the question of a particular kind of asset's usefulness as an inflation hedge is discussed in the abstract, with no reference to the current price of that kind of asset. A decade ago, common stocks were popularly favored as an inflation hedge and the price of shares rose to reflect that view. Some time later it became more generally appreciated that the cost of that kind of protection could exceed its value and the price of common shares declined accordingly. Now one seldom hears the view that equities, merely because of their intrinsic nature, are always bound to be a good hedge against inflation.

It is our expectation that other types of assets regarded as inflation shelters will go through the same cycle of enthusiasm and disillusionment. Land has been favored by some individuals who ordinarily would not think of investment in land, in the hope of protection against the erosion of their money by future inflation. Old coins, antiques and works of art generally are favored by others who would not in ordinary circumstances take much interest in such objects. Since the supply of antiques and recognized art masterpieces is limited, the price has been bid up fantastically. At what price the acquisition of such assets ceases to be a worthwhile inflation shelter (and whether that price has already been exceeded) we leave to the reader to decide.

With the elimination of the stock market as a popularly-esteemed inflation hedge, those who seek protection against inflation are crowded into other markets, thereby causing even more intense price pressure.

Those who get into, and out of, any of these markets at the proper times, will of course do very well financially. They may, perhaps, thereafter proclaim that they had succeeded in finding a successful inflation hedge. To this writer, it seems rather that they have, either through sagacity or luck, conducted a profitable speculative operation.

Speculative opportunities for profit always exist (although we mostly recognize them only in retrospect) even when inflation is not going on. The fact that such opportunities surely exist now does not mean that a reliable inflation hedge is available.

Inflation is like the atom bomb—there is no shelter to protect you from it.

William D. Tyler said, "Their clamor has become so intense that it is becoming more and more difficult for anyone to be heard above the crowd. The commercials attack, the viewer defends."

Thus with the viewer to the tube stiffening his resistance to this onslaught, advertisers are finding it much more productive with print ads to gain the readers' attention, and make the sale where you don't have to stand on your head to get attention.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY

Several months ago, an AP dispatch datelined Washington, D.C., reported, "The U.S. trade deficit with other nations rose to $821 million...(October, 1971), the largest single imbalance ever recorded....Government economists blamed dock strikes on the East and West Coasts...." This should remove the last doubt from the minds of skeptics who have questioned the importance of a strong U.S. Merchant Marien to the United States. The 300 high-technology ship construction program which was launched with the passage of the Merchant Marine Act of 1970 and subsequent efforts of congressional and maritime leaders to secure for the U.S. Merchant Marine access to a fair share of international commerce clearly have a direct bearing on the balance of payments problem.

The president of the principal roganization of U.S. shipping lines, the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, declares, "There is more than a profit motive attached to the American Merchant Marine's need to carry more cargoes. The international monetary crisis we face today was caused by the critical dollar drain from our country....The Merchant Marine can do much to improve the payments situation and the country's economic health through increased cargo carriage. In a recent 10-year period, despite low cargo carriage, the Merchant Marine contributed $7.5 billion to the U.S. balance of payments....With the new high capacity ships being built under the 1970 Act generating possibly as much as five times the amount of revenues annually as did the old conventional freighters and the opportunity of bettering our present low cargo carrying percentage considerably through a highly competitive new fleet, the Merchant Marine's balance of payments and other national contributions should increase significantly in the years ahead."

Unfortunately, it has taken a maritime strike of major proportions to drive home the truth of these words.

NOW THAT GRAND JURY OUGHT TO QUIT

The Intelligence Division of the Internal Revenue Service has informed former governor Warren Hearnes it has ended its criminal tax investigation of his financial affairs and income tax returns because it has found no evidence of wrong doing.

Now if the federal grand jury at Kansas City would do the same, it would be the proper thing. The grand jury began investigating Hearnes and his affairs in 1972--four years ago. It has found nothing, so far as known, on which to base any indictments.

Whether or not Hearnes supporters, most people have come to believe the investigations may have been started with good intentions but have developed into a vicious vendetta and attempt to smear Hearnes in an election year. They have probably cost him many votes.

Missourians in general dislike tactics of this sort, no matter against whom they are used.

CAN INFLATION BE CONTROLLED?

Like death and taxes, it seems that inflation is a permanent condition of mankind. More often than not, inflation is permitted to spread through a combination of indifference, indecision, and drift on the part of the government, business and the public. How often have you heard, for instance, the old maxim that, "a little inflation is a good thing"? That inane statement completely ignores the fact that inflation feeds upon itself and, as it grows on its own substance, it assumes immense proportions that eventually enguls everything.

It takes more to control inflation than the mere reversal of the factors that caused it. Like Frankenstein's monster, it's not easy to hold the beast in check once it has been let out of its cage. Certainly, any effective program calls for determined action by both government and business, and a willingness on the part of the public to pay the price. A first order of business would be to slow down the increase in the money supply. But here, you have to pay the price of higher interest rates. Fiscal responsibility on the part of the Government is an absolute must. Nobody ever cured inflation with the printing press.

Other important inflation dampeners include: liberalization of import quotas and relaxation of trade barriers, more vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in key industries, liberatization of depreciation allowances to stimulate plant modernization, easing the competitive restrictions on banking and financial institutions. You could also question the continued burden of repressive union monopolies, re-examine government price-support programs, establish national building codes to enable builders to take advantage of newer and cheaper materials and techniques, and modify laws that have inhibited price cutting.

This would be strong and bitter medicine, no doubt. Just think of all the toes that such a program would step on:

1. Big Business
2. Big Labor
3. The Farm Lobby
4. Civil Libertarians
5. National Association of Manufacturers
6. Government Bureaucrats

Naturally, the unions are going to resist anything that would diminish their power. The farmers will fight to the death any tampering with the price support programs. The construction unions will prevent the use of labor-saving materials and practices. American manufacturers will resent an inflow of cheaper foreign goods. And on, and on, the various special-interest groups are always in favor of the other guy pulling his share of the sad, but not particularly interested in knuckling under themselves. As a result, efforts to fight inflation usually boil down to a lot of talk and posturing, but precious little commitment.

So Americans are at a crossroad in trying to control increasing inflation--and this election year will be part of the answer of what is ahead.

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— What's good for General Motors seems to be what's good for the White House.

The two have teamed up to block a major upgrading of the nation's buses in order to protect the auto firm's profit picture, according to a confidential federal study.

In 1971, the government began a $17 million project to develop a bus of the future. It was to have wide doors, special features for the handicapped and other safety and efficiency improvements.

But a federally funded report by Stanford University describes in detail how the new concept of a "Transbus" fell afoul of politics and corporate finagling.

In the beginning, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration provided funds to three firms to build a sample "Transbus." The company with the winning model would win contracts that might eventually run into the billions.

The three were General Motors, American General and Rohr Industries. The two smaller firms, American and Rohr, were enthusiastic about trying to produce the new bus and expected continued federal funding.

But, suggests the draft study, "General Motors, which is primarily an auto manufacturer, realized that the Transbus program had the potential of increasing mass transportation usage." This, of course, "translates into a net reduction in auto sales" for General Motors.

Then last year, for what the report describes as "technological, economic and political" erasons, the White House stepped in and scrapped the laboriously preparted design specifications for "Transbus."

In their place, the White House invited the bus manufacturers themselves to come up with a bus design as long as it met certain performance standards.

This played right into the hands of General Motors. It permits the giant of the auto industry, which already controls 50 per cent of all bus sales, to build the kind of bus it wants, as opposed to a "Transbus."

The White House, meanwhile, has further aided General Motors by holding back future funding for the "Transbus" project. Since the two smaller companies cannot compete with General Motors unless they get the funding, the White House actions have effectively turned over future bus sales to General Motors -- without "Transbus reforms."

Consumer groups and the handicapped fear that the combination of the fund cut-off and General Motors' readiness to build buses with its own funds will doom any hopes of improved mass transit for the handicapped. There have been no major design changes in 15 years.

Footnote: Tomorrow (May 5) the Urban Mass Transportation Administration will hold public hearings on the Transbus imbroglio.

NAZI EULOGY: The Voice of America recently eulogized Adolf Hitler's leading Slovakian propagandist as a great patriot.

The moving tribute by VOA, which speaks for the U.S. government abroad, was inspired by the funeral of Joseph Pauco, who died a few months ago in Middletown, Pa.

Pauco escaped to the U.S. after World War II. As an editor in Slovakia, he had trumpeted the Nazi line, hailed persecution of the Jews and praised the "benevolence (of) Fuehrer Adolf Hitler."

As late as 1957, Pauco described his wartime work as editor-in-chief of the Nazi newspaper "Alovak" as a cause of "great and sacred truth." Yet, he personally sat on a tribunal that ratified the execution of American-backed Slovakian freedom fighters.

During the Nixon years, the dapper and charming exile worked his way into the affections of Republican leaders and became a top GOP political adviser on ethnic affairs. When we exposed his Nazi past in 1971, he was eased out of the job, but was kept on as a consultant to the Small Business Administration.

Yet, despite his ex-Nazi notoriety, the Voice of America broadcast a long commentary praising his dynamism, enthusiasm and high principles. This glowing tribute to an ex-Nazi was transmitted to Czechoslovakia last November.

Although the VOA mentioned he was a "journalist" in Slovakia, it neglected to add that his "journalism" consisted of spewing out hatred against Jews and the U.S.

Instead, the VOA lauded Pauco's "full Slovak soul," saying his writing would endure "as his legacy." His "many friends and enemies (are) only proof of his truthfulness and strong national feelings," eulogized the VOA. "He was a dynamic figure."

Footnote: A spokesman for the United States Information Agency, which runs VOA, said USIA head James Keogh, a former Nixon speechwriter, takes full responsibility for the broadcast. It was, said the spokesman, a "routine obituary."

THE DOG WON'T EAT

WASHINGTON— It seems to me that NBC made a big mistake in letting Barbara Walters go to ABC. For one thing, who is going to feed the dog Alpo on the Today show? Like so many people, one of the things I always looked forward to on the Today show was watching the Alpo commercials. It may have been my imagination, but I always felt the dog enjoyed his Alpo much more when it was given to him by Barbara Walters than when he had to eat it out of a dish from Gene Shalit or Jim Hartz.

I predict a crisis of the first order after Barbara leaves the Today show. It may go something like this.

An assistant comes rushing in to see the producer. "Who's going to feed Alpo to the dog now that Barbara's gone?"

"Let Betty Furness feed him. For heaven's sake, I have other things to worry about than who feeds a dog on the show."

"But Betty tried to feed him Alpo yesterday and the dog wouldn't eat it. In fact, he hasn't eaten a thing since Barbara left the show."

"Did you try Candice Bergen?"

"Yup. But the dog just looked into the camera and a tear rolled down his cheek. The Alpo people are getting pretty mad and are threatening to take their account over to ABC's Walters-Reasoner Evening News."

"Oh, no. That's all I need. Bring the dog in."

The assistant brings in the dog whose head is drooping.

"What's wrong with you?" the producer shouts at him.

The dog whines and sits down on the rug.

"I wouldn't yell at him," the assistant says. "We've been yelling at him all week and it only depresses him."

The producer takes a more sympathetic approach. "Look, I miss Barbara as much as you do. But life has to go on. The Today show is bigger than any one person. If you don't eat your Alpo, all you're doing is pointing up the fact that Barbara is no longer with us."

The dog closes his eyes.

The producer, in frustration, gets up from his desk and starts pacing the room.

"Is it more money you want? Is that what's bugging you? How much does he get?" the producer asks his assistant.

"One hundred bucks a week."

"Okay, starting next week we'll give you two hundred."

The dog shakes his head.

"We'll give you a limousine and your own hairdresser."

The dog yawns and then starts chewing on the producer's rug.

The phone rings and the assistant picks it up. He listens a minute, then says, "It's the William Morris Agency -- they claim they're representing the dog."

The producer grabs the phone. "Okay, you got me over a barrel. What do you want? ... You're out of your mind ... You're crazy... Wait a minute, don't hang up ... Maybe we can work something out ... I'm not saying yes and I'm not saying no ... It's not my decision. It has to go upstairs ... Yeh, I'll get back to you ... Don't do anything until you hear from me." He hangs up.

"What did they demand?" the assistant asks.

The producer sinks down in the chair at his desk.

"They said the dog wants a million dollars."

"A million dollars?"

"That's not all," the producer says. "He also wants to do the evening news with John Chancellor."

CAN WE SPARE THE SPACE?

The spare tire on automobiles could be as extinct as the buggy whip by 1985.

That is the prediction of a number of automobitve engineers, who estimate that if the weight of spare tire and wheel and tools motorists now drag along in their cars could be eliminated, nearly a million gallons of gasoline could be saved daily.

Collapsed spares that can be self-inflated by a small pressurized air container for temporary use have been available for several years. But the real race is on among the major tire makers such as Uniforyal, Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and General Tire to perfect the "ultimate tire" which will require no back-up replacement in the trunk.

This ultimate tire, known as the "run-flat" in the industry, will enable a motorist to drive his car, in the event of a flat, at a reasonable speed over a stated distance to a service station for the necessary repairs.,

"Elimination of the spare is within reach of the industry, and not far off," according to W. Herbert Schmalz, president of Unifroyal Tire Co.

Apart from the psychological crutch provided by the spare, there is little to be said in its favor, he says, and predicts that "when motorists feel comfortable driving on a flat tire to a service station, they will overcome any emotional barrier to riding without a spare."

STATE OF THE UNION,'76

By HOWARD FLIEGER

There are a few other things concerning the state of the union that probably ought to be mentioned about now.

Here are some examples, jotted down more or less at random:

Item. President Ford's projected federal budget of 394.2 billion dollars translates into a deficit of 43 billion.

That is a decided improvement over the 76-billion-dollar deficit expected in the current fiscal year — the largest percentage of the gross national product since 1946. But there is something awesome in the knowledge that between July 1, 1975, and Sept. 30, 1977,. the Government will have gone in the red to the tune of 135 billion dollars. That equals the entire budget of a decade ago.

Item. We are at peace. From a military standpoint we still are the greatest power on earth. But the Soviet Union is gaining on us. The way things are going, the day may not be distant when we will be No. 2.

Item. There are 1.7 million more Americans with jobs now than there were last March.That is the good news. The bad news is that, while the number of men and women in the labor force is about the highest ever, nearly 8 million are without jobs. Moreover, hundreds of thousands have either exhausted their unemployment benefits, or soon will. That is when the going gets rough.

Item. In today's world, intelligence— the knowledge of what others are up to — is as important as any facet of foreign policy. Our intelligence has fallen upon hard times. To oversimplify: Our spies are getting so much publicity that friendly spies of other countries won't confide in them any more. Result: We don't know as much about the rest of the world as we did a year ago.

Item. College campuses are quiet. But rowdyism and violence in below-college schools has become the most crucial problem in America's educational system. And nobody seems to know exactly what to do about it.

Item. There is no shortage of home heating gas this winter, as many thought there would be. But the comfort is due to an act of God, not an act of Congress or the Administration. Generally, it's been a mild winter, and in mild weather people don't use as much fuel to heat their homes as they do when it's bad outside.

There isn't a shortage of gasoline, either. But don't forget: Americans are more dependent on imported petroleum now than they have ever been. Also, a bigger proportion of the imported crude comes from the Middle East than was true at the time of the embargo two years ago. It isn't pleasant to think what another embargo would mean. The first one caused some hardships. A new one any time soon would be a disaster.

Item. There are so many Democrats running for President that most people can't remember their names — and a lot of people don't want to bother. This is not the most exciting political year in history.

Item. New York City's obligations are in default—not technically, maybe, but in fact. Still, the dire predictions that were made in advance of that event have not come to pass. Both New York and the country seem to be getting along fairly well.

Item. Possibly significant: A new audit of church attendance made by the Gallup Poll organization shows that the decline in religious activity by young Americans apparently has stopped. In 1967, four in 10 young adults attended church fairly regularly. The proportion declined to three in 10 by 1970. Now, in 1976, it still is three in 10. The downward trend has halted.

So, in many ways the state of the union is about as President Ford portrayed it the other night when he said:

"I report that the state of our union is better—in many ways a lot better—but still not good enough."

REVIEW WORLD AT 50 LOOKS AHEAD TO NEXT

Any magazine that survives to celebrate its 50th anniversary in these inflationary and rapidly changing ttmes deserves congratulations. When the anniversary comes only a year after the magazine was in bankruptcy and seemed headed the way of so many others, the event is especially noteworthy.

The Saturday Review of Literature first saw the light of print as a weekly magazine on August 2, 1924, with Henry Seidel Canby, editor, and Amy Loveman, William Rose Benet and Christopher Morley, assistant editors. Readership was 23,000 and the price 10 cents per copy.

Through boom, bust and then depression, the Review struggled along, scarcely expanding its modest circulation but remaining true to the standards its editors originally set for it. Young writers now considered classic names in American literature were introduced in its pages Hemingway, Dos Passos, Steinbeck and others. Bernard DeVoto became editor in 1936 and was succeeded by George Stevens in 1938. In 1940, 25-year-old Normal Cousins joined the staff as executive editor and shortly became editor.

In 1952, the name was shortened to Saturday Review in keeping with the magazine's greatly expanded coverage, which by then included weekly sections on music, theater, films and travel as well as increasingly respected editorials by Cousins. By 1964, circulation had risen to 400,000.

Cousins also initiated a number of humanitarian programs that gained worldwide attention. Among them was the "Hiroshima Maidens" project in 1955, which brought a group of young women disfigured by the atomic bombing to this country for plastic and other medical treatment.

Then in 1971 new publishers took over the Review and split it into four specialized monthly magazines and a series of book clubs. "In philosophical and professional disagreement" with the new owners, Cousins resigned and successfully launched his own magazine called World.

Early in 1973, Saturday Review filed for bankruptcy and Cousins was asked back to reorganize the magazine and resume full editorial control. The first biweekly issue of a combined Saturday Review World hit the newstands in September, 1973, with a circulation of 850,000.

A year later, at a party held to mark the magazine's golden anniversary, Cousins announced that it was in the black. To celebrate, the Review in August published two bulging issues, one retrospective of the first 50 years, the other looking ahead to the next 50, with experts in a number of fields forecasting changes that lie ahead.

"If we were still three years from Lindbergh's flight to France when the Saturday Review of Literature first appeared, " the editors asked, "and we are now walking on the moon, how far will we rach in the next 50 years—in 2054?"

If there is still a Saturday Review World then-and the first 50 years are the hardest its faithful readers will know the answer.

INFLATION SHELTERS?

One of the questions this writer is most frequently asked—probably other economists have the same experience—is: "What shall I do to hedge against inflation?" It is apparently asked in the hope that some form of financial preparation on the part of the questioner can prevent erosion of his savings and his expected future flow of income as a result of a rising trend in the price level. Some questioners seem even to have hopes that, if they do the right thing, they can come out ahead of the game and make a profit out of inflation.

Our usual answer is: there is no such thing as a hedge against inflation. There is no systematic course of action that can be prescribed now that will prevent future inflation, if it occurs, from damaging your financial position.

It is surprising how often the question of a particular kind of asset's usefulness as an inflation hedge is discussed in the abstract, with no reference to the current price of that kind of asset. A decade ago, common stocks were popularly favored as an inflation hedge and the price of shares rose to reflect that view. Some time later it became more generally appreciated that the cost of that kind of protection could exceed its value and the price of common shares declined accordingly. Now one seldom hears the view that equities, merely because of their intrinsic nature, are always bound to be a good hedge against inflation.

It is our expectation that other types of assets regarded as inflation shelters will go through the same cycle of enthusiasm and disillusionment. Land has been favored by some individuals who ordinarily would not think of investment in land, in the hope of protection against the erosion of their money by future inflation. Old coins, antiques and works of art generally are favored by others who would not in ordinary circumstances take much interest in such objects. Since the supply of antiques and recognized art masterpieces is limited, the price has been bid up fantastically. At what price the acquisition of such assets ceases to be a worthwhile inflation shelter (and whether that price has already been exceeded) we leave to the reader to decide.

With the elimination of the stock market as a popularly-esteemed inflation hedge, those who seek protection against inflation are crowded into other markets, thereby causing even more intense price pressure.

Those who get into, and out of, any of these markets at the proper times, will of course do very well financially. They may, perhaps, thereafter proclaim that they had succeeded in finding a successful inflation hedge. To this writer, it seems rather that they have, either through sagacity or luck, conducted a profitable speculative operation.

Speculative opportunities for profit always exist (although we mostly recognize them only in retrospect) even when inflation is not going on. The fact that such opportunities surely exist now does not mean that a reliable inflation hedge is available.

Inflation is like the atom bomb—there is no shelter to protect you from it.

DON'T STAND ON YOUR HEAD

ONE OF THE giants in the advertising business recently called television commercials, "cannibalistic."

William D. Tyler said, "Their clamor has become so intense that it is becoming more and more difficult for anyone to be heard above the crowd. The commercials attack, the viewer defends."

Thus with the viewer to the tube stiffening his resistance to this onslaught, advertisers are finding it much more productive with print ads to gain the readers' attention, and make the sale where you don't have to stand on your head to get attention.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY

Several months ago, an AP dispatch datelined Washington, D.C., reported, "The U.S. trade deficit with other nations rose to $821 million...(October, 1971), the largest single imbalance ever recorded....Government economists blamed dock strikes on the East and West Coasts...." This should remove the last doubt from the minds of skeptics who have questioned the importance of a strong U.S. Merchant Marien to the United States. The 300 high-technology ship construction program which was launched with the passage of the Merchant Marine Act of 1970 and subsequent efforts of congressional and maritime leaders to secure for the U.S. Merchant Marine access to a fair share of international commerce clearly have a direct bearing on the balance of payments problem.

The president of the principal roganization of U.S. shipping lines, the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, declares, "There is more than a profit motive attached to the American Merchant Marine's need to carry more cargoes. The international monetary crisis we face today was caused by the critical dollar drain from our country....The Merchant Marine can do much to improve the payments situation and the country's economic health through increased cargo carriage. In a recent 10-year period, despite low cargo carriage, the Merchant Marine contributed $7.5 billion to the U.S. balance of payments....With the new high capacity ships being built under the 1970 Act generating possibly as much as five times the amount of revenues annually as did the old conventional freighters and the opportunity of bettering our present low cargo carrying percentage considerably through a highly competitive new fleet, the Merchant Marine's balance of payments and other national contributions should increase significantly in the years ahead."

Unfortunately, it has taken a maritime strike of major proportions to drive home the truth of these words.

NOW THAT GRAND JURY OUGHT TO QUIT

The Intelligence Division of the Internal Revenue Service has informed former governor Warren Hearnes it has ended its criminal tax investigation of his financial affairs and income tax returns because it has found no evidence of wrong doing.

Now if the federal grand jury at Kansas City would do the same, it would be the proper thing. The grand jury began investigating Hearnes and his affairs in 1972--four years ago. It has found nothing, so far as known, on which to base any indictments.

Whether or not Hearnes supporters, most people have come to believe the investigations may have been started with good intentions but have developed into a vicious vendetta and attempt to smear Hearnes in an election year. They have probably cost him many votes.

Missourians in general dislike tactics of this sort, no matter against whom they are used.

CAN INFLATION BE CONTROLLED?

Like death and taxes, it seems that inflation is a permanent condition of mankind. More often than not, inflation is permitted to spread through a combination of indifference, indecision, and drift on the part of the government, business and the public. How often have you heard, for instance, the old maxim that, "a little inflation is a good thing"? That inane statement completely ignores the fact that inflation feeds upon itself and, as it grows on its own substance, it assumes immense proportions that eventually enguls everything.

It takes more to control inflation than the mere reversal of the factors that caused it. Like Frankenstein's monster, it's not easy to hold the beast in check once it has been let out of its cage. Certainly, any effective program calls for determined action by both government and business, and a willingness on the part of the public to pay the price. A first order of business would be to slow down the increase in the money supply. But here, you have to pay the price of higher interest rates. Fiscal responsibility on the part of the Government is an absolute must. Nobody ever cured inflation with the printing press.

Other important inflation dampeners include: liberalization of import quotas and relaxation of trade barriers, more vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in key industries, liberatization of depreciation allowances to stimulate plant modernization, easing the competitive restrictions on banking and financial institutions. You could also question the continued burden of repressive union monopolies, re-examine government price-support programs, establish national building codes to enable builders to take advantage of newer and cheaper materials and techniques, and modify laws that have inhibited price cutting.

This would be strong and bitter medicine, no doubt. Just think of all the toes that such a program would step on:

1. Big Business
2. Big Labor
3. The Farm Lobby
4. Civil Libertarians
5. National Association of Manufacturers
6. Government Bureaucrats

Naturally, the unions are going to resist anything that would diminish their power. The farmers will fight to the death any tampering with the price support programs. The construction unions will prevent the use of labor-saving materials and practices. American manufacturers will resent an inflow of cheaper foreign goods. And on, and on, the various special-interest groups are always in favor of the other guy pulling his share of the sad, but not particularly interested in knuckling under themselves. As a result, efforts to fight inflation usually boil down to a lot of talk and posturing, but precious little commitment.

So Americans are at a crossroad in trying to control increasing inflation--and this election year will be part of the answer of what is ahead.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
GM, White House Put Brakes On The Upgrading of Buses
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— What's good for General Motors seems to be what's good for the White House.

The two have teamed up to block a major upgrading of the nation's buses in order to protect the auto firm's profit picture, according to a confidential federal study.

In 1971, the government began a $17 million project to develop a bus of the future. It was to have wide doors, special features for the handicapped and other safety and efficiency improvements.

But a federally funded report by Stanford University describes in detail how the new concept of a "Transbus" fell afoul of politics and corporate finagling.

In the beginning, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration provided funds to three firms to build a sample "Transbus." The company with the winning model would win contracts that might eventually run into the billions.

The three were General Motors, American General and Rohr Industries. The two smaller firms, American and Rohr, were enthusiastic about trying to produce the new bus and expected continued federal funding.

But, suggests the draft study, "General Motors, which is primarily an auto manufacturer, realized that the Transbus program had the potential of increasing mass transportation usage." This, of course, "translates into a net reduction in auto sales" for General Motors.

Then last year, for what the report describes as "technological, economic and political" erasons, the White House stepped in and scrapped the laboriously preparted design specifications for "Transbus."

In their place, the White House invited the bus manufacturers themselves to come up with a bus design as long as it met certain performance standards.

This played right into the hands of General Motors. It permits the giant of the auto industry, which already controls 50 per cent of all bus sales, to build the kind of bus it wants, as opposed to a "Transbus."

The White House, meanwhile, has further aided General Motors by holding back future funding for the "Transbus" project. Since the two smaller companies cannot compete with General Motors unless they get the funding, the White House actions have effectively turned over future bus sales to General Motors -- without "Transbus reforms."

Consumer groups and the handicapped fear that the combination of the fund cut-off and General Motors' readiness to build buses with its own funds will doom any hopes of improved mass transit for the handicapped. There have been no major design changes in 15 years.

Footnote: Tomorrow (May 5) the Urban Mass Transportation Administration will hold public hearings on the Transbus imbroglio.

NAZI EULOGY: The Voice of America recently eulogized Adolf Hitler's leading Slovakian propagandist as a great patriot.

The moving tribute by VOA, which speaks for the U.S. government abroad, was inspired by the funeral of Joseph Pauco, who died a few months ago in Middletown, Pa.

Pauco escaped to the U.S. after World War II. As an editor in Slovakia, he had trumpeted the Nazi line, hailed persecution of the Jews and praised the "benevolence (of) Fuehrer Adolf Hitler."

As late as 1957, Pauco described his wartime work as editor-in-chief of the Nazi newspaper "Alovak" as a cause of "great and sacred truth." Yet, he personally sat on a tribunal that ratified the execution of American-backed Slovakian freedom fighters.

During the Nixon years, the dapper and charming exile worked his way into the affections of Republican leaders and became a top GOP political adviser on ethnic affairs. When we exposed his Nazi past in 1971, he was eased out of the job, but was kept on as a consultant to the Small Business Administration.

Yet, despite his ex-Nazi notoriety, the Voice of America broadcast a long commentary praising his dynamism, enthusiasm and high principles. This glowing tribute to an ex-Nazi was transmitted to Czechoslovakia last November.

Although the VOA mentioned he was a "journalist" in Slovakia, it neglected to add that his "journalism" consisted of spewing out hatred against Jews and the U.S.

Instead, the VOA lauded Pauco's "full Slovak soul," saying his writing would endure "as his legacy." His "many friends and enemies (are) only proof of his truthfulness and strong national feelings," eulogized the VOA. "He was a dynamic figure."

Footnote: A spokesman for the United States Information Agency, which runs VOA, said USIA head James Keogh, a former Nixon speechwriter, takes full responsibility for the broadcast. It was, said the spokesman, a "routine obituary.".

THE DOG WON'T EAT

WASHINGTON— It seems to me that NBC made a big mistake in letting Barbara Walters go to ABC. For one thing, who is going to feed the dog Alpo on the Today show? Like so many people, one of the things I always looked forward to on the Today show was watching the Alpo commercials. It may have been my imagination, but I always felt the dog enjoyed his Alpo much more when it was given to him by Barbara Walters than when he had to eat it out of a dish from Gene Shalit or Jim Hartz.

I predict a crisis of the first order after Barbara leaves the Today show. It may go something like this.

An assistant comes rushing in to see the producer. "Who's going to feed Alpo to the dog now that Barbara's gone?"

"Let Betty Furness feed him. For heaven's sake, I have other things to worry about than who feeds a dog on the show."

"But Betty tried to feed him Alpo yesterday and the dog wouldn't eat it. In fact, he hasn't eaten a thing since Barbara left the show."

"Did you try Candice Bergen?"

"Yup. But the dog just looked into the camera and a tear rolled down his cheek. The Alpo people are getting pretty mad and are threatening to take their account over to ABC's Walters-Reasoner Evening News."

"Oh, no. That's all I need. Bring the dog in."

The assistant brings in the dog whose head is drooping.

"What's wrong with you?" the producer shouts at him.

The dog whines and sits down on the rug.

"I wouldn't yell at him," the assistant says. "We've been yelling at him all week and it only depresses him."

The producer takes a more sympathetic approach. "Look, I miss Barbara as much as you do. But life has to go on. The Today show is bigger than any one person. If you don't eat your Alpo, all you're doing is pointing up the fact that Barbara is no longer with us."

The dog closes his eyes.

The producer, in frustration, gets up from his desk and starts pacing the room.

"Is it more money you want? Is that what's bugging you? How much does he get?" the producer asks his assistant.

"One hundred bucks a week."

"Okay, starting next week we'll give you two hundred."

The dog shakes his head.

"We'll give you a limousine and your own hairdresser."

The dog yawns and then starts chewing on the producer's rug.

The producer gets on his knees and says, "Listen, all right, you want me to say it. I'll say it. You mean a lot to the show. I love you, everyone loves you. You want five hundred a week -- you get five hundred a week."

The dog sniffs the producer's leg.

"It's no good, boss," the assistant says. "He and Barbara were a team. I think it broke his heart when she decided to go to ABC."

The phone rings and the assistant picks it up. He listens a minute, then says, "It's the William Morris Agency -- they claim they're representing the dog."

The producer grabs the phone. "Okay, you got me over a barrel. What do you want? ... You're out of your mind ... You're crazy... Wait a minute, don't hang up ... Maybe we can work something out ... I'm not saying yes and I'm not saying no ... It's not my decision. It has to go upstairs ... Yeh, I'll get back to you ... Don't do anything until you hear from me." He hangs up.

"What did they demand?" the assistant asks.

The producer sinks down in the chair at his desk.

"They said the dog wants a million dollars."

"A million dollars?"

"That's not all," the producer says. "He also wants to do the evening news with John Chancellor."

Steak prices low, pork prices stable

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Steak prices are generally lower this week, while pork prices were relatively stable, the Missouri Farm Bureau shoppers guide reports.

Round steak dropped 17 cents to $1.40 per pound, followed by a 10 cent decrease in T-Bone steak prices to $2.02. Sirloin steak prices averaged six cents lower at $1.81, rib steak was down three cents to $1.67 and ground beef was up three cents to $.81 per pound. Increases of four cents were recorded for blade roast at $.91 and arm roast went up a penny to $1.15.

Pork shank portion and center cut chops rose a penny to $1.02 and $1.85 respectively. Pork steak was up two cents to $1.35 and pork blade roast was up five cents to $1.33. Butt portion prices remained stable at $1.13.

Chicken prices also stayed even at $.52 per pound for whole fryers and $.59 per pound for cut up fryers.

Milk, eggs, bread and sugar prices also remained fairly stable varying only by a penny from last week. Potatoes rose three cents to $1.45.

Letter-writing vanishing art in today's busy life

NEW YORK (AP) — "Letters can be more than a means of formal communication," says Margery Forer, creative head of a firm that produces social stationery. "Letters are unique. Each one is as different as the person who writes it."

Unfortunately, she adds, letter-writing as an art is being neglected today, thanks to the convenience of postcards and telephones.

"But the spoken word cannot be cherished and reread countless times, nor does an open-face card inspire any intimate exchange of thoughts," Mrs. Forer points out.

Letter-writing first flowered as an art when postal communication became generally available and when lifestyles afforded adequate leisure to educated men and women, she notes.

"In earlier times, statesmen and princes communicated with one another but correspondence between friends or family members was rare."

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Television's "Mary Hartman" has been booked for investigation of cocaine possession.

Louise Lasser, 37, star of the hit soap opera "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," was released on $1,631 bond Monday.

Police Capt. Jack Egger said the actress was arrested Saturday after allegedly "creating a disturbance" at a boutique. She was booked on an outstanding traffic warrant, Egger said, and during a routine search of her belongings, a vial of white powder was discovered in her purse.

"Chemical analysis determined that it was cocaine," Egger said.

She was rebooked on the drug charge, he said, and released after posting bond.

Off-base mom strikes out with Ann

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please print my plea? I ask this because I love my children and hate to see them disillusioned. They are so sad. What has happened is making my mother look like a liar and it really isn't her fault. Thank you, Miss Landers. You are a fine person.

Dear Mr. You-Know-Who-You-Are: I'm glad you liked the tapestry of the horse that hung on the wall of the motel room you and Mom occupied last night. She said it was really beautiful and was so pleased when you gave it to her as a gift. This morning when she saw my children Mom described the tapestry and the kids became so excited they asked if she would give it to them to hang on our living-room wall. Grandma said yes.

Tonight Grandma called to say you went to her place and took the tapestry. Not only have you deprived my children of a fine gift but you are making a liar out of Grandma.

Please have the common decency to return the tapestry to my mother. The children are heartbroken. -- M's Daughter

Dear Daughter: What a beautiful family! Thieves, double-crossers and liars, with a little motel sex thrown in.

Why in the world would you want your children to have a "gift" that was stolen from a motel? I hope when your plea appears in print you will see the situation in a more realistic light.

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every day and think your advice is very good. That's why I hate to see you cop out and suggest "counseling."

I've been to many counselors, analysts, psychologists, etc. None of them did me any good. The first few visits they listen, look at the ceiling a lot, nod their heads and ask about your childhood.

The next few visits they ask what YOU think should be done. After several visits they tell you to do what YOU think is best. This advice? If I could depend on my own judgment why would I need THEM?

Several months ago I called my doctor in the middle of the night. I was desperate. I begged him to help me. Do you know what he said? "Come see me tomorrow."

Finally I got smart and realized that for $50 an hour I chould have a terrific vacation and it would do me a lot more good.

So please, Ann, when people write for advice, give them your best shot. You might be the only one who is willing to speak out. – An Admirer

Dear Ad: I "speak out" plenty, and I'll continue to do so. Many people who write for advice know what they ought to do. They just need someone to tell them to go ahead and do it. Others need a lot more than advice. They should have continuing help. And this is when I suggest counseling.

I realize one's chances for getting a first-rate counselor are the same as getting a first-rate doctor, lawyer, plumber, auto mechanic or hairdresser. No better than 50-50.

Letter-writing vanishing art in today's busy life

NEW YORK (AP) — "Letters can be more than a means of formal communication," says Margery Forer, creative head of a firm that produces social stationery. "Letters are unique. Each one is as different as the person who writes it."

Unfortunately, she adds, letter-writing as an art is being neglected today, thanks to the convenience of postcards and telephones.

"But the spoken word cannot be cherished and reread countless times, nor does an open-face card inspire any intimate exchange of thoughts," Mrs. Forer points out.

Letter-writing first flowered as an art when postal communication became generally available and when lifestyles afforded adequate leisure to educated men and women, she notes.

"In earlier times, statesmen and princes communicated with one another but correspondence between friends or family members was rare."

"It has been said," she continues, "that the age of letter-writing opened with the birth of Madame de Sevigny in the 17th century and closed with the death of 19th-century author Prosper Merimee."

Sikeston Bulldog speedster Dale Deal avoids the tag of Perryville third baseman Steve Prevallet (above), then gets the safe sign from the man in blue (below) after stealing third during yesterday's game at Perryville. The theft was Deal's 22nd in a row without being caught, tying an unofficial school record. Deal had a double and a triple as the Bulldogs blasted the Pirates 10-2 to move into Thursday's District semifinals at Poplar Bluff.

Bulldog bats erupt for 13 hits in 10-2 victory

By DALE FORBIS

The Perryville Pirates are going to get tired of playing Sikeston in the district playoffs. For the second year in a row Sikeston ousted Perryville from state competition, this time by an easy 10-2 score. The win was the sixth in a row for the Bulldogs, ran their record to 10-4 and earned them second shot at Poplar Bluff in the district semi-finals Thursday at the Bluff City. Sikeston beat the Mules earlier this season, 9-1.

The important contest was evenly matched for three frames or, in other words, until the Perryville defenders fell apart. Six errors in the last four innings, added to the biggest hitting explosion of the year for Sikeston, resulted in the departure of Perryville starter and loser, Randy Winkler. Before vacating the mound, the hard-firing lefty was rounded up for nine runs and eleven hits. There were Bulldogs all over the basepaths throughout the afternoon.

Shortstop Dale Deal led the contest off with a triple over the centerfielder's head, but Sikeston couldn't capitalize. Both Winkler and his Sikeston counterpart, Ricky Taylor, had things pretty much their own way until the third. Then the batters began to shake off the effects of the mid-50s temperatures and sprayed hits all over the spacious ballpark.

With one out, Garry Griffin drew a walk and went to third ahead of Deal's double. The runners couldn't score on Jeff Limbaugh's infield safety but, after a second out, David Shell crammed a high fastball into left for the first two runs of the game.

Going into the bottom half of the inning with a 2-0 lead, Taylor had yet to surrender a hit. But, designated hitter Kent Steffens took care of that technicality with a leadoff single. Dave Erzfeld followed with a walk, but Joe Giesler fanned. When catcher Leroy Rellergert bounced into a forceplay for a second out it appeared as if Taylor might escape. However, centerfielder Bob Wibbenmeyer picked on his Sikeston counterpart, ripping a liner that sailed over Griffin's head for Perryville's two runs and a tie score.

The Pirates didn't have too much time to relish their newly acquired even status. Bill Hampton started the fourth with a walk. Gary Silverthorn also received a free pass and Wayne Barnett scored Hampton with a single. Griffin sacrificed the runners to second and third, Deal was intentionally walked and Jeff Limbaugh promptly wrecked the strategy with a broken-bat single for two more runs.

With a 5-2 lead already, the Bulldog batters gave Taylor even more breathing room in the fifth. Larry Jackson led off with a double off the left field fence. Hampton, who was on base four straight times after a ground out, singled to score Jackson. He trotted home on Griffin's baseknock.

Even with a 7-2 lead, the Bulldog batters continued to pour it on. Shell was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on Jackson's single. Jackson took second on an error by the rightfielder while he was picking up the ball, the advanced to third when the pitcher made a wild pickoff attempt. Hampton drove him in to make it 9-2.

The seventh inning produced the tenth, and final, Sikeston run. Deal led off by reaching for the fifth straight time, in this instance on the second baseman's error. He stole second and third and scored when Jeff Limbaugh beat out his third hit on an infield grounder. The two stolen bases equalled an unofficial record of 22 consecutive steals in one season by a Bulldog. The other holder of this mark graduated in 1974, All-State catcher John Leible.

The thirteen Sikeston hits were an all season high and the ten runs tied a seasonal high point. Both factors and many others combined to make lefthander Ricky Taylor's fifth consecutive win that much easier. Taylor, struggling with control because of cool weather and a headwind, walked three and fanned eight. Only the third-inning triple by Wibbenmeyer was hit hard off the crafty senior.

The regular season baseball wars don't stop just because of the district playoffs. With the first round of state play just getting underway, the Sikeston Bulldogs still have two regular season games left, all this week.

The game scheduled for this afternoon against Notre Dame of Cape has been cancelled due to the Bulldogs' rigorous district schedule this week. The game is not likely to be rescheduled, according to coach MacDaniel. But, the Dogs still have a big doubleheader set for Saturday against the defending state champions, Fox of Arnold.

Cats upset Central

FREDERICKTOWN — The Fredericktown Black Cats, who had won only three games previously all season long, came up with three runs in the fifth inning and another in the sixth to record the most stunning upset of the 1976 high school baseball season, a 7-4 victory over the Cape Central Tigers in the opening round of the District Six Class AA Tournament.

The loss eliminated the top-seeded Tigers from district competition. Fredericktown will advance to the semifinals Thursday when they visit Jackson, who clobbered Charleston 17-0 in their opening round game Monday.

Central had scored twice in the top of the fifth, who Bob Volkerding and Bruce Wunderlich coming through with RBI singles to make it a 4-3 game. But the Black Cats came back in the bottom of the inning to knock out Tiger starter Lacy Bernard, who took the loss. Mark Harris doubled to drive in a run with one out, and brother Gary's single scored Mark to put Fredericktown ahead. After a pair of walks to load the bases, the Tigers committed their only error of the afternoon to allow Harris to score. Danny Dewrock came on for the Tigers and shut the door on the Fredericktown rally, getting the final two outs without further scoring. Dewrock worked the sixth as well and gave up an unearned run which made the final score 7-4.

Gary Harris also had a big blow for Fredericktown in the bottom of the first as the hosts took a 2-0 lead. After a pair of walks from Bernard, Harris drilled a triple to plate a pair.

Central came back with a run in the second when an easy fly ball dropped in the outfield for a two-base error and Fredericktown starter Eddie Paulk was charged with two wild pitches. The Tigers tied it in the top of the fourth when Bernard helped himself with an RBI single.

After Fredericktown regained the lead with a single run in the bottom of the fourth, Central roughed up Paulk for two in the fifth. Mike Stephens took over in the sixth after the Cats had taken the lead in the bottom of the fifth and got credit for the win.

Central saw their record drop to 11-6.

Shortstop Dale Deal led the contest off with a triple over the centerfielder's head, but Sikeston couldn't capitalize. Both Winkler and his Sikeston counterpart, Ricky Taylor, had things pretty much their own way until the third. Then the batters began to shake off the effects of the mid-50s temperatures and sprayed hits all over the spacious ballpark.

With one out, Garry Griffin drew a walk and went to third ahead of Deal's double. The runners couldn't score on Jeff Limbaugh's infield safety but, after a second out, David Shell crammed a high fastball into left for the first two runs of the game.

Going into the bottom half of the inning with a 2-0 lead, Taylor had yet to surrender a hit. But, designated hitter Kent Steffens took care of that technicality with a leadoff single. Dave Erzfeld followed with a walk, but Joe Giesler fanned. When catcher Leroy Rellergert bounced into a forceplay for a second out it appeared as if Taylor might escape. However, centerfielder Bob Wibbenmeyer picked on his Sikeston counterpart, ripping a liner that sailed over Griffin's head for Perryville's two runs and a tie score.

The Pirates didn't have too much time to relish their newly acquired even status. Bill Hampton started the fourth with a walk. Gary Silverthorn also received a free pass and Wayne Barnett scored Hampton with a single. Griffin sacrificed the runners to second and third, Deal was intentionally walked and Jeff Limbaugh promptly wrecked the strategy with a broken-bat single for two more runs.

With a 5-2 lead already, the Bulldog batters gave Taylor even more breathing room in the fifth. Larry Jackson led off with a double off the left field fence. Hampton, who was on base four straight times after a ground out, singled to score Jackson. He trotted home on Griffin's baseknock.

Even with a 7-2 lead, the Bulldog batters continued to pour it on. Shell was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on Jackson's single. Jackson took second on an error by the rightfielder while he was picking up the ball, the advanced to third when the pitcher made a wild pickoff attempt. Hampton drove him in to make it 9-2.

The seventh inning produced the tenth, and final, Sikeston run. Deal led off by reaching for the fifth straight time, in this instance on the second baseman's error. He stole second and third and scored when Jeff Limbaugh beat out his third hit on an infield grounder. The two stolen bases equalled an unofficial record of 22 consecutive steals in one season by a Bulldog. The other holder of this mark graduated in 1974, All-State catcher John Leible.

The thirteen Sikeston hits were an all season high and the ten runs tied a seasonal high point. Both factors and many others combined to make lefthander Ricky Taylor's fifth consecutive win that much easier. Taylor, struggling with control because of cool weather and a headwind, walked three and fanned eight. Only the third-inning triple by Wibbenmeyer was hit hard off the crafty senior.

The regular season baseball wars don't stop just because of the district playoffs. With the first round of state play just getting underway, the Sikeston Bulldogs still have two regular season games left, all this week.

The game scheduled for this afternoon against Notre Dame of Cape has been cancelled due to the Bulldogs' rigorous district schedule this week. The game is not likely to be rescheduled, according to coach MacDaniel. But, the Dogs still have a big doubleheader set for Saturday against the defending state champions, Fox of Arnold.

Cats upset Central

FREDERICKTOWN — The Fredericktown Black Cats, who had won only three games previously all season long, came up with three runs in the fifth inning and another in the sixth to record the most stunning upset of the 1976 high school baseball season, a 7-4 victory over the Cape Central Tigers in the opening round of the District Six Class AA Tournament.

The loss eliminated the top-seeded Tigers from district competition. Fredericktown will advance to the semifinals Thursday when they visit Jackson, who clobbered Charleston 17-0 in their opening round game Monday.

Central had scored twice in the top of the fifth, who Bob Volkerding and Bruce Wunderlich coming through with RBI singles to make it a 4-3 game. But the Black Cats came back in the bottom of the inning to knock out Tiger starter Lacy Bernard, who took the loss. Mark Harris doubled to drive in a run with one out, and brother Gary's single scored Mark to put Fredericktown ahead. After a pair of walks to load the bases, the Tigers committed their only error of the afternoon to allow Harris to score. Danny Dewrock came on for the Tigers and shut the door on the Fredericktown rally, getting the final two outs without further scoring. Dewrock worked the sixth as well and gave up an unearned run which made the final score 7-4.

Gary Harris also had a big blow for Fredericktown in the bottom of the first as the hosts took a 2-0 lead. After a pair of walks from Bernard, Harris drilled a triple to plate a pair.

Central came back with a run in the second when an easy fly ball dropped in the outfield for a two-base error and Fredericktown starter Eddie Paulk was charged with two wild pitches. The Tigers tied it in the top of the fourth when Bernard helped himself with an RBI single.

After Fredericktown regained the lead with a single run in the bottom of the fourth, Central roughed up Paulk for two in the fifth. Mike Stephens took over in the sixth after the Cats had taken the lead in the bottom of the fifth and got credit for the win.

Central saw their record drop to 11-6.

Eagles rally to win 8-6

EAST PRAIRIE - A five-run outburst by East Prairie in the top of the sixth inning lifted the Eagles to an 8-6 victory over Bloomfield in a quarterfinal round game in the Class A District Eleven Tournament Monday afternoon.

Bill and Wayne Rickman drilled back-to-back RBI singles for the Wildcats to give them a 4-3 lead in the fourth inning. Ken Jackson's basehit drove in two more in the same inning as Bloomfield led 6-3.

But the Eagles bounced back in the sixth. Gary Davidson singled to score John Thurmond, who had doubled to start things off. A double by Mark Mars scored two more and tied the score at 6-6. Terry Wheatley then plastered a triple of loser Dave Hanner to give the Eagles the lead. William Johnson's RBI single put the finishing touches on the East Prairie rally. The final two runs were charged to Wayne Rickman, who relieved with one out in the sixth.

Carl Moore's RBI double gave East Prairie a 1-0 lead in the top of the first, but doubles by Tim Bolin and Ken Jackson put Bloomfield ahead 2-1. In the third, East Prairie took advantage of three walks and a single by Kevin Maynard to score two more.

Jackson blasts Jays

CHARLESTON— Hard throwing Clay Van Gilder pitched the Jackson Indians to a 17-0 rout over the CHS Bluejays here Monday afternoon in the District 6 Class AA baseball tournament.

Van Gilder helped his cause with a homerun in the top of the first inning which provided the Indians with all the runs the big righthander needed in subduing the Bluejays.

Charleston managed only two singles off the Jackson hurler and one of those was an infield hit.

After Jackson had taken a 1-0 lead the Indians came back in the fourth frame and jumped on starter and loser Jerry Naile for four runs and Van Gilder doubled home two ofthe four.

Jackson put the game on ice in the top of the fifth inning with a 12 run burst. Rick Law and Joe Bollinger had doubles in the seven hit inning that saw the Bluejay hurlers issue six bases on balls.

Jackson ended the game with a total of 17 hits. Charleston committed two errors while the Indians played errorless ball.

Charleston is finished with the state tournament play but picks up Kelly at home Tuesday in the Scott-Mississippi conference play. Jackson plays in the District tournament again Thursday afternoon.

R-1 retiring teachers honored

HOWARDVILLE — Four teachers in the New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district who are retiring at the close of the school year were honored Wednesday by the Community Teachers Association.

Glenda Waters Conrad, Bernice Stafford and Herschel Yates of Matthews and H. B. Mitchell of Lilbourn were recognized for their dedication to the teaching profession and presented gifts in appreciation by the CTA.

Mrs. Conrad, a graduate of Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, began her 44-year teaching career in 1929 at the Werner School, which was one of six rural schools in the Matthews Consolidated School District.

She taught three years in the York School, which later became a part of the Matthews School.

Except for three years when her children were small, she has taught fourth grade since 1933 in the Matthews School.

She is a charter member of the Christian Church at Matthews where she serves as a deaconess and teaches a Sunday School class. She is secretary of the Matthews Community Club.

Mrs. Stafford is a graduate of Portageville high school and Arkansas State University at Jonesboro. She began teaching in 1936 at Boekerton Elementary School, where she taught for four years.

Beginning in 1943 she taught first and second grades for the next 12 years at Scott School. Her next three years were at Hayward Elementary School which is now part of the North Pemiscot District.

From 1958 until Jan. 1961 she was a fifth grade teacher in Portageville.

The Staffords moved to Matthews so she obtained a release from her contract and took a position as sixth grade teacher in the Matthews Elementary School, where she has been teaching the same grade in the same room ever since.

Mrs. Stafford has taught 34 of her 37-year career in the area that is now the New Madrid R-1 school district.

Yates has lived in Matthews since 1933 and has been an industrial arts instructor for 23 years. He is a Methodist lay minister and has farming interests in New Madrid County.

Mitchell has a total of 31 years service in the educational profession. He was a class room teacher for five years and elementary principal for two years at Wardell. # Missouri roads in poor condition

JEFFERSON CITY–A series of statewide public hearings, at which testimony was presented by about 100 representatives of state and county government, professional engineers and the public, has resulted in the concluson that Missouri's county roads and bridges are in such poor condition that many represent an immediated danger to the traveling public and the state economy.

The 11 hearings were conducted from Feb. 18 through April 9 by a House of Representatives farm to market roads subcommittee chaired by Rep. J. T. "Jerry" Howard, D-Dexer, in an effort to study the condition of rural roads and bridges and determine what action should be taken by the Legislature to alleviate possible problems.

In a preliminary report presented by the subcommittee, the condition of the rural road-bridge network is shown to be drastically inadequate, with bridges presenting a particularly difficult problem.

Figures presented in the report show that:

-Of 12,771 county bridges in Missouri, 11,497 are 17 feet or less in width, making them deficient by Missouri Highway Departments standards.

-At an estimated bridge replacement cost of $25 per square foot, Missouri counties now face a $471,710 fee for simply replacing bridges deemed deficient or worse.

-At least nine county bridges have collapsed within the past 24 months, with the high potential for collapse increased by the fact that antiquated and inadequate bridges often carry trucks and farm machinery weighing in excess of 20,000 pounds.

Many county officials testified that bridges in their area are regarded as too weak to be crossed by loaded school buses. Barton County officials testified that in some cases children must get off their school bus, walk across the bridge and wait for the empty bus to cross, then reboard.

Other problems facing counties in regard to their road systems are insufficient width of right- of-way, lack of adequate ditches, extremely hig cost of equipment, materials and fuel and a general lack of revenue to cope with unprecedented traffic demands.

The subcommittee report indicates that the only two basic sources of revenue available to counties for roads and bridges are the property tax and five per cent of the motor fuel tax collected statewide.

In addition, federal money has been available this year under the Off-System Roads Program, through which funds were allocated to counties on the basis of rural land area, population and road mileage.

However, the off-system program has major drawbacks in that the county must finance the total cost of a project from its own funds, with 70 per cent being reimbursed by the federal government if the project meets inspection standards.

The report shows that few counties can afford the initial expenditure of many thousands of dollars even though they would eventually receive a 70 per cent reimbursement. Further problems are that high federal standards are felt to be too stringent for measuring county maintenance but are earmarked only for new or replacement construction.

Among subcommittee recommendations for improving county roads and brides and providing funds for this purpose were that the Missouri Constitution be amended to increase the current motor fuel tax allocation formula under which counties receive road funds. Such a constitutional amendment would require approval by a majority of the state's voters.

Further testimony recommended that counties engage in more professional planning to obtain better roads and bridges at minimum expenses and to standardize plans to the greatest extent possible.

It also indicated that this might be done on a statewide or regional basis after sustudy of specific problemsm such as those presented in Southeast Missouri due to the great numbers of briges over drainage ditches.

It was pointed out that many of the problems confronting the county systems result from fragmentation of responsibilities between the county, townships and road districts. Testimony indicated that additional costs attributable to duplication and lack of purchasing power could be eliminated through a consolidation of responsibility for road purposes.

A final report containing specific recommendations and conclusions will be presented to the Legislature by the subcommittee and will include specific recommendations for a legislative program to improve the condition of the state's rural roads and bridges.

Advance teenager writes country-western songs

ADVANCE— Olive Fay Markham is on her way to Nashville, Tenn., because two of the 16-year-old Advance songwriter's arrangements have been taped by a well-known recording artist there.

Miss Markham, the daughter of Mrs. Ercie Markham and the late Truman Markham, was notified recently by producer Roger Ricker of Aguila Publishing Co., that two of her country-western songs, "Number One Fool" and "Why Did A Teardrop Have to Fall," were to be recorded and released by George Riddle, a Grand Ole Opery star, in about four weeks. They will be coming out on the Brite Star label.

The young songwriter, a sophomore at Advance High School, began writing over a year ago when she discovered phrases came easy to her when picking with her guitar.

"I was just sitting one day playing different songs and I soon got a line on my own song," she recalled.

"After writing my first song, the others started coming easier. It became serious to me at this point," Miss Markham continued.

When asked why she, unlike many teen-agers, was interested in country and western music instead of the modern hit tunes of the day, she replied, "I have always liked country and western music better than modern songs. I guess it is because I like the guitar so much and because my parents always took me with them to country and western parties and dances."

Miss Markham admits to being excited about the opportunity but says she will finish high school before devoting all her efforts to launching a career as a songwriter and possibly a recording artist.

But, until then, she plans to keep on strumming.

Government plans to release revised food stamp rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one-fourth of the families now receiving food stamps would be dropped from the program under new rules the government plans to release later this week.

Most of the ineligible households would be those with annual incomes of $6,000 to $9,000 a year, depending on family size.

On the other hand, a family of two or three persons with an yearly income of less than $3,600 would receive greater benefits.

Strikers and laid-off workers would have to wait 90 days under the new rules before they could apply for the program, so their income over that period could be averaged to see if they qualify. Under the old rules they could apply right away.

The states that administer the program will be told to put the new rules into effect in stages as soon as possible after June 1. Some church and labor groups are expected to challenge this in court.

Critics of the new plan say that, in general, the working poor and women heads of household would be hit hardest and the elderly would be helped most.

The revised procedures would do away with the complicated table of eligibility that resulted in a wide range of prices for food stamps. In its place will be a standard deduction of $100 per month, or $125 for recipients over 65. Food stamps would cost a flat 30 per cent of income remaining after the deduction.

Congress and the White House have received almost as many complaints about the food-stamp program as they have about the mail service.

The new regulations, ordered by President Ford in February, are intended to pacify angry voters and taxpayers by eliminating 5.3 million persons from the rolls by September 1977. Another five million to six million should be paying $5 more for their books of stamps by then.

The program now costs taxpayers about $5.57 billion annually in benefits and an additional $400 million in administrative costs.

The reduction is expected to total 28 per cent of the present recipients, for a savings of 20 per cent. The government will apply $1.2 billion of the savings to future federal budgets.

Litton endorses Carter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., broke a trend in Missouri today by announcing his endorsement of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter for the Democratic nomination for president.

"I think he is the man who is going to win the nomination because he has shown he can appeal to a broad segment of the people," said Litton, who is seeking his party's nomination for the U.S. Senate.

"I'm convinced he'll be the nominee and will be elected president," Litton said. "I'm not endorsing him in an attempt to get anyone else to endorse him. All I'm doing is indicating my personal preference."

Litton broke away from most high-ranking Democrats in Missouri who support a plan to send an uncommitted delegation to the national convention. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said at a Democratic function in Springfield over the weekend that he remained in favor of an uncomitted delegation.

Eagleton acknowledged that Carter is the front-runner for the nomination but said upcoming primaries in Nebraska, Maryland and Michigan could change the race. Eagleton said the drive for uncommitted delegates was not a stop-Carter effort.

Litton said in his statement that he felt the uncommitted movement was a sincere one formulated when the presidential field was split among nearly a dozen candidates. Litton said, however, that he could not support it because he thought Missouri Democrats should express their own presidential preference rather than having uncommitted delegates make the decision.

Ratchford plans to go on vacation

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dr. C. Brice Ratchford said today he plans to take a brief vacation from his duties as president of the University of Missouri, but there was no further word on reports that he might resign.

"The strain of the last few weeks has been considerable," Ratchford said in a prepared statement. "I have pushed myself pretty hard. Now that the legislative session is over and that the semester is coming to a close, I feel I can take a few days off."

The Kansas City Star, in a copyrighted story Sunday, said sources close to Ratchford indicated the university president might resign within the next four weeks, possibly before the May 28 meeting of the Missouri Board of Curators.

Ratchford refused to comment on the reports over the weekend and was taking no calls from newsmen today.

The university president has been under fire since an extensive lobbying plan for more state appropriations was called improper by Gov. Christopher S. Bond. Last Thursday, faculty members voted no confidence in Ratchford and asked the curators to remove him as president.

In his statement, Ratchford said he was grateful for what he called "kind and supportive messages" in recent days from those both within and outside the university.

He said he would begin the vacation after attending previously scheduled meetings in Washington this week.

SeMo man questioned after body is discovered

MARION, Ark.-A 19-year-old Kennett , Mo., man is being held in the Crittenden County jail here for questioning in connection with the death of a 40-year-old Missouri man whose body was found Sunday morning in a ditch about 15 miles from here.

Being held is Stanley Goodrich, who had been charged by Missouri authorities with arson after the victim's burned-out car was found near Kennett on April 24.

The owner of the car, Joe Bob Hollingsworth, of Blue Springs, Mo., near Kansas City, was believed to have encountered foul play with a hitchhiker he had picked up, authorities said.

Hollingsworth's body was found along a gravel road about a mile north of Interstate 40 and 10 miles west of West Memphis, authorities said.

The body was sent to the state medical examiner at Little Rock for an autopsy.

Hollingsworth , a partner in Sentinel Security Co. in Oklahoma City, was on his way from Florida to Oklahoma City when he was killed, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said.

The spokesman said it is believed Hollingsworth picked up a highhiker "somewhere around Batesville, Miss.," on April 24. His car, which has been abandoned and set on fire, was found near Kennett about 9 that night and Hollingsworth had been missing ever since.

Goodrich was arrested after the fire, charged with arson and was released on $7,500 bond. Investigators for the sheriff's department here said they have been working on leads supplied by Missouri authorities.

Goodrich was again taken into custody and brought here Sunday morning for further questioning.

Investigators said robbery apparently was not a motive in the death and it is believed that Hollingsworth and his passenger had gotten into an argument.

Pulitizer Prize winners are named

NEW YORK (AP) - Author Saul Bellow has won the 1976 Pulitzer prize for fiction with "Humboldt's Gift," a novel whose characters speak of the revered award with utter disdain.

"I'm very delighted," said Bellow, 60, a faculty member of the University of Chicago who has been passed over four previous times for the prize.

Gene Miller of the Miami Herald won a Pulitzer for news reporting, and author Paul Horgan was honored in the history category — the second time each won prizes.

The Anchorage Daily News, which has a staff of 20 and a circulation of 16,500, won the gold medal for public service for its investigation into the Teamsters union's growing impact on Alaska's ecomomy and politics.

The prize for special local reporting went to the staff of the Chicago Tribune for uncovering widespread abuses in federal housing programs in Chicago.

In the field of drama, the Broadway hit "A Chorus Line" won a Pulitzer. The musical, created and directed by Michael Bennett, recently received a Tony award for best musical of the year.

A special award for contribution to American music was announced for Scott Joplin, the one-time "King of Ragtime," who died penniless 59 years ago.

Sydney H. Schanberg of The New York Times won the international reporting prize for his coverage "at great risk" of the Communist takeover of Cambodia and the uprooting of its people. Schanberg remained behind in the Cambodian capital after the government's surrender.

The prize for national reporting went to Des Moines Register reporter James Risser, a lawyer, for his exposure of a major scandal in the U.S. export trade.

The 11 journalism and seven other prizes in letters, drama and music were announced Monday by Columbia University, on the recommendations of an advisory board.

Endowed by the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer, the prizes were awarded first in 1917. They carry a $1,000 prize for each winner, with the exception that the newspaper winning the public service award gets a gold medal.

Bellow calls "Humboldt's Gift" a "comic book about death." In it, Humboldt, a poet, observes:

"The Pulitzer is for the birds — for the pullets. It's just a dummy newspaper publicity award given by crooks and illiterates. You become a walking Pulitzer ad, so even when you croak the first word of the obituary is 'Pulitzer prize winner passes.'"

Four books by Bellow, "Henderson the Rain King," "The Adventures of Augie March," "Herzog," and "Mr. Sammler's Planet" had been in the running for previous Pulitzer prizes.

Miller was cited for courageous general reporting over an 8½-year period that led to the exoneration of two men twice convicted of murder and sentenced to death in Florida.

In 1967, he won the prize for special reporting for producing evidence in two separate cases that freed a man and woman wrongfully convicted of murder.

At age 72, Horgan won the history prize for "Lamy of Santa Fe," the story of the first Roman Catholic archbishop in the Southwest. He also won the history prize in 1955, for "Great River: The Rio Grande in North American History."

Philip P. Kerby, a 64-year-old senior editorial writer for the Los Angeles Times, won the 1976 editorial writing award for his critical assessment of secrecy in government and court-imposed censorship of trial proceedings.

A graduate of the underground weekly field, Tony Auth, 33, won the 1976 prize for editorial cartooning as a staff member of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

One Auth cartoon showed Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev singing in the middle of a vast American wheat field, "O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain."

Stanley Forman, 30, of the Boston Herald American won the spot news photography award for his shots of a fire escape collapse in a Boston fire and the five-story fall of a woman and child.

The feature photography award went to the 17-member photo staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times for coverage of court-ordered busing with its attendant violence.

Walter "Red" Smith, sports columnist of The New York Times and a veteran of 50 years as a sports writer, won the 1976 Pulitzer Prize for commentary, the first sports writer ever to be cited in that category. Previous awards to sports writers have been in the field of reporting.

Alan M. Kriegsman, 48-year-old dance critic of the Washington Post, won the prize for criticism. He is a former music teacher.

Prof. R.W.B. Lewis won the biography prize for "Edith Wharton: A Biography," which revealed an unsuspected love affair involving Mrs. Wharton and shattered her image as a cold, aloof figure in American fiction.

Missouri roads in poor condition

JEFFERSON CITY–A series of statewide public hearings, at which testimony was presented by about 100 representatives of state and county government, professional engineers and the public, has resulted in the concluson that Missouri's county roads and bridges are in such poor condition that many represent an immediated danger to the traveling public and the state economy.

The 11 hearings were conducted from Feb. 18 through April 9 by a House of Representatives farm to market roads subcommittee chaired by Rep. J. T. "Jerry" Howard, D-Dexer, in an effort to study the condition of rural roads and bridges and determine what action should be taken by the Legislature to alleviate possible problems.

In a preliminary report presented by the subcommittee, the condition of the rural road-bridge network is shown to be drastically inadequate, with bridges presenting a particularly difficult problem.

Figures presented in the report show that:

-Of 12,771 county bridges in Missouri, 11,497 are 17 feet or less in width, making them deficient by Missouri Highway Departments standards.

-At an estimated bridge replacement cost of $25 per square foot, Missouri counties now face a $471,710 fee for simply replacing bridges deemed deficient or worse.

-At least nine county bridges have collapsed within the past 24 months, with the high potential for collapse increased by the fact that antiquated and inadequate bridges often carry trucks and farm machinery weighing in excess of 20,000 pounds.

Many county officials testified that bridges in their area are regarded as too weak to be crossed by loaded school buses. Barton County officials testified that in some cases children must get off their school bus, walk across the bridge and wait for the empty bus to cross, then reboard.

Other problems facing counties in regard to their road systems are insufficient width of right- of-way, lack of adequate ditches, extremely hig cost of equipment, materials and fuel and a general lack of revenue to cope with unprecedented traffic demands.

The subcommittee report indicates that the only two basic sources of revenue available to counties for roads and bridges are the property tax and five per cent of the motor fuel tax collected statewide.

In addition, federal money has been available this year under the Off-System Roads Program, through which funds were allocated to counties on the basis of rural land area, population and road mileage.

However, the off-system program has major drawbacks in that the county must finance the total cost of a project from its own funds, with 70 per cent being reimbursed by the federal government if the project meets inspection standards.

The report shows that few counties can afford the initial expenditure of many thousands of dollars even though they would eventually receive a 70 per cent reimbursement. Further problems are that high federal standards are felt to be too stringent for measuring county maintenance but are earmarked only for new or replacement construction.

Among subcommittee recommendations for improving county roads and brides and providing funds for this purpose were that the Missouri Constitution be amended to increase the current motor fuel tax allocation formula under which counties receive road funds. Such a constitutional amendment would require approval by a majority of the state's voters.

Further testimony recommended that counties engage in more professional planning to obtain better roads and bridges at minimum expenses and to standardize plans to the greatest extent possible.

It also indicated that this might be done on a statewide or regional basis after sustudy of specific problemsm such as those presented in Southeast Missouri due to the great numbers of briges over drainage ditches.

It was pointed out that many of the problems confronting the county systems result from fragmentation of responsibilities between the county, townships and road districts. Testimony indicated that additional costs attributable to duplication and lack of purchasing power could be eliminated through a consolidation of responsibility for road purposes.

A final report containing specific recommendations and conclusions will be presented to the Legislature by the subcommittee and will include specific recommendations for a legislative program to improve the condition of the state's rural roads and bridges.

Ratchford plans to go on vacation

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dr. C. Brice Ratchford said today he plans to take a brief vacation from his duties as president of the University of Missouri, but there was no further word on reports that he might resign.

"The strain of the last few weeks has been considerable," Ratchford said in a prepared statement. "I have pushed myself pretty hard. Now that the legislative session is over and that the semester is coming to a close, I feel I can take a few days off."

The Kansas City Star, in a copyrighted story Sunday, said sources close to Ratchford indicated the university president might resign within the next four weeks, possibly before the May 28 meeting of the Missouri Board of Curators.

Ratchford refused to comment on the reports over the weekend and was taking no calls from newsmen today.

The university president has been under fire since an extensive lobbying plan for more state appropriations was called improper by Gov. Christopher S. Bond. Last Thursday, faculty members voted no confidence in Ratchford and asked the curators to remove him as president.

In his statement, Ratchford said he was grateful for what he called "kind and supportive messages" in recent days from those both within and outside the university.

He said he would begin the vacation after attending previously scheduled meetings in Washington this week.

SeMo man questioned after body is discovered

MARION, Ark.-A 19-year-old Kennett , Mo., man is being held in the Crittenden County jail here for questioning in connection with the death of a 40-year-old Missouri man whose body was found Sunday morning in a ditch about 15 miles from here.

Being held is Stanley Goodrich, who had been charged by Missouri authorities with arson after the victim's burned-out car was found near Kennett on April 24.

The owner of the car, Joe Bob Hollingsworth, of Blue Springs, Mo., near Kansas City, was believed to have encountered foul play with a hitchhiker he had picked up, authorities said.

Hollingsworth's body was found along a gravel road about a mile north of Interstate 40 and 10 miles west of West Memphis, authorities said.

The body was sent to the state medical examiner at Little Rock for an autopsy.

Hollingsworth , a partner in Sentinel Security Co. in Oklahoma City, was on his way from Florida to Oklahoma City when he was killed, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said.

The spokesman said it is believed Hollingsworth picked up a highhiker "somewhere around Batesville, Miss.," on April 24. His car, which has been abandoned and set on fire, was found near Kennett about 9 that night and Hollingsworth had been missing ever since.

Goodrich was arrested after the fire, charged with arson and was released on $7,500 bond. Investigators for the sheriff's department here said they have been working on leads supplied by Missouri authorities.

Goodrich was again taken into custody and brought here Sunday morning for further questioning.

Investigators said robbery apparently was not a motive in the death and it is believed that Hollingsworth and his passenger had gotten into an argument.

Pulitzer Prize winners are named

NEW YORK (AP) - Author Saul Bellow has won the 1976 Pulitzer prize for fiction with "Humboldt's Gift," a novel whose characters speak of the revered award with utter disdain.

"I'm very delighted," said Bellow, 60, a faculty member of the University of Chicago who has been passed over four previous times for the prize.

Gene Miller of the Miami Herald won a Pulitzer for news reporting, and author Paul Horgan was honored in the history category — the second time each won prizes.

The Anchorage Daily News, which has a staff of 20 and a circulation of 16,500, won the gold medal for public service for its investigation into the Teamsters union's growing impact on Alaska's ecomomy and politics.

The prize for special local reporting went to the staff of the Chicago Tribune for uncovering widespread abuses in federal housing programs in Chicago.

In the field of drama, the Broadway hit "A Chorus Line" won a Pulitzer. The musical, created and directed by Michael Bennett, recently received a Tony award for best musical of the year.

A special award for contribution to American music was announced for Scott Joplin, the one-time "King of Ragtime," who died penniless 59 years ago.

Sydney H. Schanberg of The New York Times won the international reporting prize for his coverage "at great risk" of the Communist takeover of Cambodia and the uprooting of its people. Schanberg remained behind in the Cambodian capital after the government's surrender.

The prize for national reporting went to Des Moines Register reporter James Risser, a lawyer, for his exposure of a major scandal in the U.S. export trade.

The 11 journalism and seven other prizes in letters, drama and music were announced Monday by Columbia University, on the recommendations of an advisory board.

Endowed by the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer, the prizes were awarded first in 1917. They carry a $1,000 prize for each winner, with the exception that the newspaper winning the public service award gets a gold medal.

Bellow calls "Humboldt's Gift" a "comic book about death." In it, Humboldt, a poet, observes:

"The Pulitzer is for the birds — for the pullets. It's just a dummy newspaper publicity award given by crooks and illiterates. You become a walking Pulitzer ad, so even when you croak the first word of the obituary is 'Pulitzer prize winner passes.'"

Four books by Bellow, "Henderson the Rain King," "The Adventures of Augie March," "Herzog," and "Mr. Sammler's Planet" had been in the running for previous Pulitzer prizes.

Miller was cited for courageous general reporting over an 8½-year period that led to the exoneration of two men twice convicted of murder and sentenced to death in Florida.

In 1967, he won the prize for special reporting for producing evidence in two separate cases that freed a man and woman wrongfully convicted of murder.

At age 72, Horgan won the history prize for "Lamy of Santa Fe," the story of the first Roman Catholic archbishop in the Southwest. He also won the history prize in 1955, for "Great River: The Rio Grande in North American History."

Philip P. Kerby, a 64-year-old senior editorial writer for the Los Angeles Times, won the 1976 editorial writing award for his critical assessment of secrecy in government and court-imposed censorship of trial proceedings.

A graduate of the underground weekly field, Tony Auth, 33, won the 1976 prize for editorial cartooning as a staff member of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

One Auth cartoon showed Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev singing in the middle of a vast American wheat field, "O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain."

Stanley Forman, 30, of the Boston Herald American won the spot news photography award for his shots of a fire escape collapse in a Boston fire and the five-story fall of a woman and child.

The feature photography award went to the 17-member photo staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times for coverage of court-ordered busing with its attendant violence.

Walter "Red" Smith, sports columnist of The New York Times and a veteran of 50 years as a sports writer, won the 1976 Pulitzer Prize for commentary, the first sports writer ever to be cited in that category. Previous awards to sports writers have been in the field of reporting.

Alan M. Kriegsman, 48-year-old dance critic of the Washington Post, won the prize for criticism. He is a former music teacher.

Prof. R.W.B. Lewis won the biography prize for "Edith Wharton: A Biography," which revealed an unsuspected love affair involving Mrs. Wharton and shattered her image as a cold, aloof figure in American fiction.

The poetry prize went to Brooklyn College teacher John Lawrence Ashbery, 48, for his "Self Portrait in a Convex Mirror."

Advance teenager writes country-western songs

ADVANCE— Olive Fay Markham is on her way to Nashville, Tenn., because two of the 16-year-old Advance songwriter's arrangements have been taped by a well-known recording artist there.

Miss Markham, the daughter of Mrs. Ercie Markham and the late Truman Markham, was notified recently by producer Roger Ricker of Aguila Publishing Co., that two of her country-western songs, "Number One Fool" and "Why Did A Teardrop Have to Fall," were to be recorded and released by George Riddle, a Grand Ole Opery star, in about four weeks. They will be coming out on the Brite Star label.

The young songwriter, a sophomore at Advance High School, began writing over a year ago when she discovered phrases came easy to her when picking with her guitar.

"I was just sitting one day playing different songs and I soon got a line on my own song," she recalled.

"After writing my first song, the others started coming easier. It became serious to me at this point," Miss Markham continued.

When asked why she, unlike many teen-agers, was interested in country and western music instead of the modern hit tunes of the day, she replied, "I have always liked country and western music better than modern songs. I guess it is because I like the guitar so much and because my parents always took me with them to country and western parties and dances."

Miss Markham admits to being excited about the opportunity but says she will finish high school before devoting all her efforts to launching a career as a songwriter and possibly a recording artist.

But, until then, she plans to keep on strumming.

Twins celebrate

Government plans to release revised food stamp rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one-fourth of the families now receiving food stamps would be dropped from the program under new rules the government plans to release later this week.

Most of the ineligible households would be those with annual incomes of $6,000 to $9,000 a year, depending on family size.

On the other hand, a family of two or three persons with an yearly income of less than $3,600 would receive greater benefits.

Strikers and laid-off workers would have to wait 90 days under the new rules before they could apply for the program, so their income over that period could be averaged to see if they qualify. Under the old rules they could apply right away.

The states that administer the program will be told to put the new rules into effect in stages as soon as possible after June 1. Some church and labor groups are expected to challenge this in court.

Critics of the new plan say that, in general, the working poor and women heads of household would be hit hardest and the elderly would be helped most.

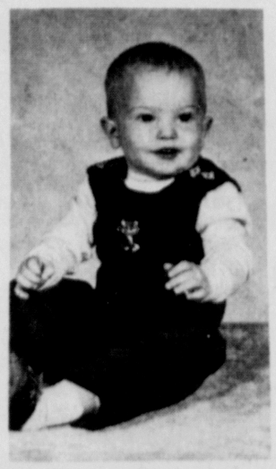

The revised procedures would do away with the complicated table of eligibility that resulted in a wide range of prices for food stamps. In its place will be a standard deduction of $100 per month, or $125 for recipients over 65. Food stamps would cost a flat 30 per cent of income remaining after the deduction.

Congress and the White House have received almost as many complaints about the food-stamp program as they have about the mail service.

The new regulations, ordered by President Ford in February, are intended to pacify angry voters and taxpayers by eliminating 5.3 million persons from the rolls by September 1977. Another five million to six million should be paying $5 more for their books of stamps by then.

The program now costs taxpayers about $5.57 billion annually in benefits and an additional $400 million in administrative costs.

The reduction is expected to total 28 per cent of the present recipients, for a savings of 20 per cent. The government will apply $1.2 billion of the savings to future federal budgets.

Honored on 2nd birthday

The parents of David Ralph Yant Jr., honored him for his second birthday, which was April 26, with a party in their home.

Among guests attending the party were David's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood White, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yant, all of Sikeston. His great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray White of Essex, also attended.

Litton endorses Carter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., broke a trend in Missouri today by announcing his endorsement of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter for the Democratic nomination for president.

"I think he is the man who is going to win the nomination because he has shown he can appeal to a broad segment of the people," said Litton, who is seeking his party's nomination for the U.S. Senate.

"I'm convinced he'll be the nominee and will be elected president," Litton said. "I'm not endorsing him in an attempt to get anyone else to endorse him. All I'm doing is indicating my personal preference."

Litton broke away from most high-ranking Democrats in Missouri who support a plan to send an uncommitted delegation to the national convention. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said at a Democratic function in Springfield over the weekend that he remained in favor of an uncomitted delegation.

Eagleton acknowledged that Carter is the front-runner for the nomination but said upcoming primaries in Nebraska, Maryland and Michigan could change the race. Eagleton said the drive for uncommitted delegates was not a stop-Carter effort.

Litton said in his statement that he felt the uncommitted movement was a sincere one formulated when the presidential field was split among nearly a dozen candidates. Litton said, however, that he could not support it because he thought

Missouri Democrats should express their own presidential preference rather than having uncommitted delegates make the decision.

Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

According to the patrol, Mungle's car ran off the road, onto the shoulder and struck a bridge abutment head-on.

At 9:10 p.m. Monday on Highway 153, five miles north of Kennett in Dunklin County, a one-car accident resulted in serious injuries to the driver, Ray Edward Hightower, 24, of Kennett Route Two.

He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett and later transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

special election in the near future for the re-submission of the one-mill tax for maintenance of the city cemeteries and parks to the voters. The tax was defeated in the regular city election April 6.

Because of ambiguities of present ordinances concerning when elected officials are to take office, the ordinance was ordered revised and is to set out when the terms are to become effective and when the old ones cease.

The board also agreed that rebates of street and drainage assessments promised to citizens for storm sewer drainage costs on streets improved in 1971 and 1972 would be paid to owners of record of the properties fronting the streets. The owners of record will be those owning the land on April 19. Property owners on Kingshighway, Church, Digges, Line, Mott, Virginia, Powell and Mitchell will receive rebates ranging from 90 cents to $2 per front foot.

Also ordered by the council was enforcement of city weed ordinances.

Reported was the starting of street construction on Pinnell Lane by Cowan Construction Co. of Sikeston, which is now installing curbing and guttering.

The other four jobs are currently vacant and will not be filled, including three police posts. One of those positions—meter attendant—was vacated Friday when Bob Groves resigned. Humane Officer Bob Beardsley will assume the meter attendant duties, in addition to his own.

Employes remaining on the payroll will receive a seven per cent cost of living raise.

Budget items include funds for hiring a public safety director this summer. The director will coordinate the police and fire departments. Further reorganization of the police department is expected when the director is hired.

The burial fee at City Cemetery will be increased from $50 to $100.

Church said the budget for fiscal year 1977-78 will be in trouble if costs and revenues continue their present trends. Because the city is near its legal limit on the property tax, it may have to ask voters to raise the limit or approve a different source of revenue.

See-Mor rate hike

The council approved a $1 per month rate increase for See-Mor Cable TV, conditional on See-Mor's promise to refund the money to its subscribers if it has not installed a micro-wave system bringing in three channels from St. Louis by March 15, 1977. If the system is not installed by then, the rate will revert to $5.50.

The extra dollar is needed to float a loan to pay for the micro-wave system, company officials say.

The micro-wave system will cost $244,000. The company is being loaned the money by Firstmark of Indianapolis, Ind., at 10.5 per cent interest.

The rate increase is expected to go into effect June 1.

Board appointments

Planning and Zoning Commissioner Ted Elliott was not reappointed to a new four-year term. Elliott recently had been criticized for voting in favor of a rezoning request on Tanner Street which allowed his business partner, Ira Shuffitt, to open a gift shop.

Linda Steward, 218 Kramer Drive, was appointed to replace Elliott. Ron Grojean was reappointed to serve another four-year term on the commission.

George Gilmore was appointed to a three-year term to replace Bruce Lewis on the Board of Adjustments. The Board of Adjustments was criticized at the last regular monthly meeting for always granting variances.

Hal Robertson was reappointed to the Board of Municipal Utilities.

Dr. Robert Alhvin was appointed to replace Miss Uriel Haw on the Library Board. Miss Haw asked not to be reappointed. Thomas Gilmore and Mrs. John Hux were reappointed.

Lawrence Cleek and Charles Bluemenburg were reappointed to three-year terms on the traffic committee.

Geneva Beck, Roger Sherman, Ruth Sharp, Lloyd Stoner and Williard Sexton were reappointed to three-year terms on the park board.

Appointments to the Airport Advisory Board were tabled.

City investment policy

Church said the city must call for sealed bids on interest rates for city funds deposited in banks.

Currently, Sikeston divides its money between the three banks in town. However, state law now requires that the city deposit its money in the bank offering the highest interest.

Rezonings

The rezoning of the Vernon Morris property along North Ingram Street north of Smith Street, from single-family to multiple-family was approved.

The request for abandonment of an easement on the north edge of the Smith Addition between First and Second streets was tabled.

Rezoning of several lots in the Lizabeth Addition on the Schuerenberg property south of Highway 60 from commercial to light industrial was approved.

The resubdivision of the lot on the northeast corner of West Wakefield Street and Davis Boulevard into two lots was approved. The property now has a four-plex apartment on it. When subdivided, a duplex will be built on the second lot.

A request for the vacating of an alley from East Malone Avenue and Greer Street between Maple Street and the Bank of Sikeston Drive-in facility was tabled.

The plat for an addition to the Matthews Subdivision south of Ables Road was approved. The addition will contain 111 lots, including 101 one-family and 10 two-family lots.

A 36-lot addition to the Hunters Acres West Subdivision was approved. Building restrictions will ban A-frames and log cabins from the lots.

Liquor licenses

Three liquor license applications were approved. TVS Industries was granted a 5 per cent beer consumption license at 109 W. Malone Ave., formerly known as Red's Bar; Ladell Berkbigler was granted a 5 per cent beer consumption license for the War Drum Restaurant, and Ned Matthews was granted a package liquor license for the new shopping center on North Main Street.

Two applications were tabled: Lawrence Luber, 5 per cent beer consumption license, and Dewayne Reeves, 5 per cent beer consumption license, at Piggly Wiggly Supermarket on West Malone Avenue. The supermarket has apparently undergone a name change from Food Giant to Piggly Wiggly. The store is not yet open.

Street pavings

Street pavings by approved include: First Street, between Smith and Wakefield streets; Firsco Street, between Compress Road and North Street; and Fuchs Street, between Osage and North streets.

Other Items

Church said Airport Manager Cotton Holyfield has submitted a 60-day notice saying that he will leave his job as airport manager on July 1.

Church said the city and Airport Advisory Board are drawing up new specifications for airport management bids.

Church said a survey of police, fire and hospital officials showed a need for the painting of house numbers on the curbs in front of houses. He said many homes have no house numbers, making it difficult for emergency personnel to find the correct home in an emergency.

Councilman Steve Sikes proposed that the City Council establish an industrial development council. The council asked City Attorney Manuel Drumm to draw up an ordinance which would create such a body.

P'ville aldermen take office

PORTAGEVILLE— City officials elected April 6 were administered the oath of office Monday night, committee appointments were made, the city property tax rate was set and other matters were handled by the City Council following a brief session of the old council in which bills for April were approved for payment.

Taking the oaths of office for two year terms were Police Judge Paul Farris, Ward One Alderman, Ernest "Sonny" Moylan Jr. and Ward Two Alderman Pete Clay.

Moylan was named chairman of the board; and committee appointments included: finance, Moylan and Alderman Pat McCrate; street, Aldermen Bennie Goodman and Clay; water, McCrate and Goodman; parks, Clay and Moylan; fire, Moylan and Clay; police, McCrate and Clay; and building, Clay and Goodman.

The council created an office of ambulance chief and appointed Bob Duggins to fill the position.

An ordinance was approved setting the 1976 property tax levy at $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation, which is the same as last year.

In a breakdown of the levy, $1 is for general revenue; 20 cents for health purposes and 15 cents for park programs.

Charles Penman, New Madrid County civil defense director, advised the council that state civil defense funds of $4,174.90 had been approved for the installation of a civil defense siren warning system in thecity at an estimated cost of $8,349. The balance of the cost is to be provided by the city and the Southeast Misosuri CB Weather Watch Club. Bids for the equipment will be opened at the next council meeting June 7.

An ordinance changing the name of Foster Drive to Stafford Drive was approved by the council.

A police report disclosed that 32 arrests were made in April, which included 22 for speeding and 10 for miscellaneous offenses.

Turkey hunter shot by partner

POPLAR BLUFF-For the second time in as many days, a St. Louis man has been shot while turkey hunting in the Lake Wappapello area.

Charles William Morris, 21, of 7783 Old English Road, St. Louis, was admitted to Doctors Hospital for treatment of 12-guage shotgun pellet wounds to his face and shouler.

Morris reportedly was shot by his hunting partner, John Vilcek, 27, also of St. Louis. The two were hunting, Vilcek said, and became separated off Route BB in Wayne County. "I heard a turkey and shot," Vilcek said, "and there was Chuck (Morris)."

Vilcek said his partner was about 25 yards away when the incident occurred. The shot hit him in the right side of his face and shoulder. The wounds were not serious, a hospital spokesman said.

The accident occurred in the Walnut Grove area across the lake and upstream from Chaonia Landing.

Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

According to the patrol, Mungle's car ran off the road, onto the shoulder and struck a bridge abutment head-on.

At 9:10 p.m. Monday on Highway 153, five miles north of Kennett in Dunklin County, a one-car accident resulted in serious injuries to the driver, Ray Edward Hightower, 24, of Kennett Route Two.

He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett and later transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Hightower's southbound car, traveling at a high rate of speed, ran off the road on a curve and struck a tree, the patrol said.

A one-car accident at 10:05 p.m. Monday brought serious injuries to Melvin Charles Kernebeck, 32, of St. Louis, driver of the southbound vehicle.

Kernebeck was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The patrol said the accident occurred when the car ran off Highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff in Butler County, and overturned.

special election in the near future for the re-submission of the one-mill tax for maintenance of the city cemeteries and parks to the voters . The tax was defeated in the regular city election April 6.

Because of ambiguities of present ordinances concerning when elected officials are to take office, the ordinance was ordered revised and is to set out when the terms are to become effective and when the old ones cease.

The board also agreed that rebates of street and drainage assessments promised to citizens for storm sewer drainage costs on streets improved in 1971 and 1972 would be paid to owners of record of the properties fronting the streets. The owners of record will be those owning the land on April 19. Property owners on Kingshighway, Church, Digges, Line, Mott, Virginia, Powell and Mitchell will receive rebates ranging from 90 cents to $2 per front foot.

Also ordered by the council was enforcement of city weed ordinances.

Reported was the starting of street construction on Pinnell Lane by Cowan Construction Co. of Sikeston, which is now installing curbing and guttering.

The other four jobs are currently vacant and will not be filled, including three police posts. One of those positions—meter attendant—was vacated Friday when Bob Groves resigned. Humane Officer Bob Beardsley will assume the meter attendant duties, in addition to his own.

Employes remaining on the payroll will receive a seven per cent cost of living raise.

Budget items include funds for hiring a public safety director this summer. The director will coordinate the police and fire departments. Further reorganization of the police department is expected when the director is hired.

The burial fee at City Cemetery will be increased from $50 to $100.

Church said the budget for fiscal year 1977-78 will be in trouble if costs and revenues continue their present trends. Because the city is near its legal limit on the property tax, it may have to ask voters to raise the limit or approve a different source of revenue.

See-Mor rate hike

The council approved a $1 per month rate increase for See-Mor Cable TV, conditional on See-Mor's promise to refund the money to its subscribers if it has not installed a micro-wave system bringing in three channels from St. Louis by March 15, 1977. If the system is not installed by then, the rate will revert to $5.50.

The extra dollar is needed to float a loan to pay for the micro-wave system, company officials say.

The micro-wave system will cost $244,000. The company is being loaned the money by Firstmark of Indianapolis, Ind., at 10.5 per cent interest.

The rate increase is expected to go into effect June 1.

Board appointments

Planning and Zoning Commissioner Ted Elliott was not reappointed to a new four-year term. Elliott recently had been criticized for voting in favor of a rezoning request on Tanner Street which allowed his business partner, Ira Shuffitt, to open a gift shop.

Linda Steward, 218 Kramer Drive, was appointed to replace Elliott. Ron Grojean was reappointed to serve another four-year term on the commission.

George Gilmore was appointed to a three-year term to replace Bruce Lewis on the Board of Adjustments. The Board of Adjustments was criticized at the last regular monthly meeting for always granting variances.

Hal Robertson was reappointed to the Board of Municipal Utilities.

Dr. Robert Alhvin was appointed to replace Miss Uriel Haw on the Library Board. Miss Haw asked not to be reappointed. Thomas Gilmore and Mrs. John Hux were reappointed.

Lawrence Cleek and Charles Bluemenburg were reappointed to three-year terms on the traffic committee.

Geneva Beck, Roger Sherman, Ruth Sharp, Lloyd Stoner and Williard Sexton were reappointed to three-year terms on the park board.

Appointments to the Airport Advisory Board were tabled.

City investment policy

Church said the city must call for sealed bids on interest rates for city funds deposited in banks.

Currently, Sikeston divides its money between the three banks in town. However, state law now requires that the city deposit its money in the bank offering the highest interest.

Rezonings

The rezoning of the Vernon Morris property along North Ingram Street north of Smith Street, from single-family to multiple-family was approved.

The request for abandonment of an easement on the north edge of the Smith Addition between First and Second streets was tabled.

Rezoning of several lots in the Lizabeth Addition on the Schuerenberg property south of Highway 60 from commercial to light industrial was approved.

The resubdivision of the lot on the northeast corner of West Wakefield Street and Davis Boulevard into two lots was approved. The property now has a four-plex apartment on it. When subdivided, a duplex will be built on the second lot.

A request for the vacating of an alley from East Malone Avenue and Greer Street between Maple Street and the Bank of Sikeston Drive-in facility was tabled.

The plat for an addition to the Matthews Subdivision south of Ables Road was approved. The addition will contain 111 lots, including 101 one-family and 10 two-family lots.

A 36-lot addition to the Hunters Acres West Subdivision was approved. Building restrictions will ban A-frames and log cabins from the lots.

Liquor licenses

Three liquor license applications were approved. TVS Industries was granted a 5 per cent beer consumption license at 109 W. Malone Ave., formerly known as Red's Bar; Ladell Berkbigler was granted a 5 per cent beer consumption license for the War Drum Restaurant, and Ned Matthews was granted a package liquor license for the new shopping center on North Main Street.

Two applications were tabled: Lawrence Luber, 5 per cent beer consumption license, and Dewayne Reeves, 5 per cent beer consumption license, at Piggly Wiggly Supermarket on West Malone Avenue. The supermarket has apparently undergone a name change from Food Giant to Piggly Wiggly. The store is not yet open.

Church said Airport Manager Cotton Holyfield has submitted a 60-day notice saying that he will leave his job as airport manager on July 1.

Church said the city and Airport Advisory Board are drawing up new specifications for airport management bids.

Church said a survey of police, fire and hospital officials showed a need for the painting of house numbers on the curbs in front of houses. He said many homes have no house numbers, making it difficult for emergency personnel to find the correct home in an emergency.

P'ville aldermen take office

PORTAGEVILLE— City officials elected April 6 were administered the oath of office Monday night, committee appointments were made, the city property tax rate was set and other matters were handled by the City Council following a brief session of the old council in which bills for April were approved for payment.

Taking the oaths of office for two year terms were Police Judge Paul Farris, Ward One Alderman, Ernest "Sonny" Moylan Jr. and Ward Two Alderman Pete Clay.

Moylan was named chairman of the board; and committee appointments included: finance, Moylan and Alderman Pat McCrate; street, Aldermen Bennie Goodman and Clay; water, McCrate and Goodman; parks, Clay and Moylan; fire, Moylan and Clay; police, McCrate and Clay; and building, Clay and Goodman.

The council created an office of ambulance chief and appointed Bob Duggins to fill the position.

An ordinance was approved setting the 1976 property tax levy at $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation, which is the same as last year.

In a breakdown of the levy, $1 is for general revenue; 20 cents for health purposes and 15 cents for park programs.

Charles Penman, New Madrid County civil defense director, advised the council that state civil defense funds of $4,174.90 had been approved for the installation of a civil defense siren warning system in thecity at an estimated cost of $8,349. The balance of the cost is to be provided by the city and the Southeast Misosuri CB Weather Watch Club. Bids for the equipment will be opened at the next council meeting June 7.

An ordinance changing the name of Foster Drive to Stafford Drive was approved by the council.

A police report disclosed that 32 arrests were made in April, which included 22 for speeding and 10 for miscellaneous offenses.

Turkey hunter shot by partner

POPLAR BLUFF-For the second time in as many days, a St. Louis man has been shot while turkey hunting in the Lake Wappapello area.

Charles William Morris, 21, of 7783 Old English Road, St. Louis, was admitted to Doctors Hospital for treatment of 12-guage shotgun pellet wounds to his face and shouler.

Morris reportedly was shot by his hunting partner, John Vilcek, 27, also of St. Louis. The two were hunting, Vilcek said, and became separated off Route BB in Wayne County. "I heard a turkey and shot," Vilcek said, "and there was Chuck (Morris)."

Vilcek said his partner was about 25 yards away when the incident occurred. The shot hit him in the right side of his face and shoulder. The wounds were not serious, a hospital spokesman said.

Bar backs court reform bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A court reform measure approved by the legislature in the final hours of the session received the support of the Board of Governors of the Missouri Bar Monday.

The board, in a special meeting to discuss the legislative approved measure, voted to support the constiutional amendment and withdraw its own initiative petition drive for a similar plan.

"We believe that the action of the proposed amendment shows recognition of the pressing need to modernize our court system. We urge the voters to adopt the legislative proposal in the general election in November," said Thomas Cochran, president of the Missouri Bar.

The bar has worked on a revision plan over the past decade, but when the legislature failed to act on a reform proposal prior to this year, the bar began a drive to put its own proposition on the ballot.

With the passage of the legislative proposal, board members decided any efforts to put a second, similar measure on the November ballot would be too confusing to the public.

The legislative proposal, while it didn't contain all the changes the Bar had hoped for, was termed a "bit step forward and included many basic changes necessary to court reform"

The main difference between the two proposals is the legislative one does not require municipal judges to have legal training. The Bar had hoped to require legal training for all judges.

"We cannot attack it as being bad legislation, and the only criticism is it doesn't go far enough," said John Gibson of Kansas City. "It's better than I thought we'd see from the legislature."

The majority of the board wanted to draft a "laudatory" statement of support for the legislature to ensure a good relationship between the bar and the general assembly. Several members said they hoped to introduce several changes in the proposal at a later date.

But Cochran was more critical of the legislature saying the session negotiations on the proposal centered more on how the proposal "effected their legilative perogatives rather than improvement in the quality of justice."

Cochran also said the threat of the initiative petition drive sponsored by the bar helped passage of the legislative proposal.

The reform measure revamps the entire court system creating a three-tiered structure, eliminating magisrate and probate courts. Magistrate judges would become associate circuit court judges under the plan, which will go into effect in January, 1979, if approved by the voters.

Expansion of the nonpartisan court plan to include magistrates in areas which already have is is also in the proposal. The nonpartisan plan provides a system under which judges are appointed by a judicial commission and the governor rather than be election of the people.

Board members said they believed the League of Women Voters and the Missouri Attorney's Associaton would support the Bar's decision to back the legislative measure in the upcoming election.

Councilman Steve Sikes proposed that the City Council establish an industrial development council. The council asked City Attorney Manuel Drumm to draw up an ordinance which would create such a body.
